(9.) Leave to amend shall be conclusive as to the right of the party to make the amendment allowed, except in case of fraud; and the amendment shall in all courts and for all purposes be deemed to form part of the specification.

(10.) The foregoing provisions of this section do not apply when and so long as any action for infringement or proceeding for revocation of a patent is pending.

Whereas _____ of _____, in _____, hath by his solemn declaration represented unto me that he is in possession of an invention for _____ that he is the true and first inventor thereof, and that the same is not in use in this Colony by any other person to the best of his knowledge and belief :

And whereas the said inventor hath humbly prayed that I would be pleased to grant unto him (hereinafter together with his heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, or any of them, referred to as the said patentee) Letters patent in the name of His Majesty for the sole use and advantage of his said invention within this Colony :

And whereas the said inventor hath by and in his complete specification particularly described the nature of his invention :

Know ye, therefore, that I, in the name and on behalf of His Majesty, do by these Presents, give and grant unto the said patentee my especial licence, full power, sole privilege, and authority, that he the said patentee by himself, his agent, or licencees, and no others, may at all times hereafter, during the term of years herein mentioned, make, use, exercise, and vend the said invention within this Colony in such manner as to him or them may seem meet, and that the said patentee shall have and enjoy the whole profit and advantage from time to time accruing by reason of the said invention, during the term of fourteen years from the date hereunder written of these Presents : and to the end that the said patentee may have and enjoy the sole use and exercise and the full benefit of the said invention, I do by these presents require and strictly command all and every person and persons, bodies politic and corporate, and all others of what estate, quality, degree, name, or condition soever they be within this Colony that they do not at any time during the continuance of the said term of fourteen years, either directly or indirectly, make use of or put in practice the said invention or any part of the same, nor in any wise imitate the same, make or cause to be made any addition thereto or subtraction therefrom, whereby to pretend themselves the inventors thereof, without the consent, licence or agreement, of the said patentee in writing under his hand and seal, on pain of incurring such penalties as may be justly inflicted on such offenders for their contempt and of being answerable to the said patentee according to law for his damages thereby occasioned : Provided always and these letters patent are on this condition, that, if at any time during the said term it be made to appear to the Supreme Court that this grant is contrary to law, or prejudicial or inconvenient to His Majesty's subjects in general, or that the said invention is not a new invention as to the public use and exercise thereof or that the said patentee is not the first and true inventor thereof within this Colony as aforesaid, these letters patent shall forthwith determine, and be void to all intents and purposes, notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained : Provided also, that if the said patentee shall not pay all fees by law required to be paid in respect of the grant of these letters patent, or in respect of any matter relating thereto at the time or times, and in manner for the time being by law provided ; and also if the said patentee shall not supply or cause to be supplied, for his Majesty's service in this Colony all such articles of the said invention as may be required by the officers administering any department of His Majesty's service in this Colony in such manner, at such times, and at and upon such reasonable prices and terms as shall be settled for that purpose by the Governor of this Colony, then and in any of the said cases, these letters patent, and all privileges and advantages whatever hereby granted shall determine and become void notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained : Provided also, that nothing herein contained shall prevent the granting of licences in such manner and for such considerations as they may by law be granted : and lastly I do by these Presents in the name and on behalf of His Majesty grant unto the said patentee that these letters patent shall be construed in the most beneficial sense for the advantage of the said patentee. 4th December, 1902.

HIS Excellency the Governor directs the publication, for general information, of the following Circular despatches received from the Secretary of State for the Colonies, on the subject of issuing passports :—

CIRCULAR.

Downing Street,
19th September, 1902.

Sir,—You are probably aware that hitherto the authority of His Majesty's Representatives and Consular Officers abroad to issue passports to persons naturalized in British Colonies, but not possessing Colonial passports, has been limited to furnishing such persons with provisional passports, limited in duration, in order to enable them to return to their Colony or to the United Kingdom.

2. It has been found, however, that this arrangement causes trouble and inconvenience to persons travelling abroad who have been naturalized in British Colonies, and the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs has therefore authorized His Majesty's Representatives and Consular Officers to issue to such persons, on proof of naturalization, a passport similar in form to that enclosed in my Circular despatch of the 31st of August, 1898.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient, humble Servant,

J. CHAMBERLAIN.

The Officer Administering
the Government of British Guiana.

CIRCULAR.

Downing Street,
24th October, 1902.

Sir,—In continuation of my Circular despatch of the 19th ultimo relative to the issue by Consular Officers abroad of passports to persons naturalized in British Colonies but not possessing Colonial passports, I have the honour to transmit to you, for your information, a copy of the Circular which the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs has issued to His Majesty's Representatives and Consular Officers on the subject.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient, humble Servant,

J. CHAMBERLAIN.

The Officer Administering
the Government of British Guiana.

Enclosure to Circular 24th October, 1902.

Foreign Office,
September 12th, 1902.

With reference to the Circular (Treaty) despatch from this Office of the 19th September, 1898, relative to the form of passport to be issued by Governors of British Colonies to persons naturalized in those Colonies, I have to inform you that you are authorized, when necessary, to issue to such persons passports containing a distinct statement that the holder is, within the limits of the Colony within which he was naturalized, a British Colonial subject by naturalization, and is only entitled beyond the limits of that Colony, as a matter of courtesy, to the general good offices and assistance of His Majesty's Representatives abroad. Care should especially be exercised to avoid any appearance of claiming to protect such persons as against the laws of their country of origin.

A statement in the form annexed should accordingly be inscribed at the foot of each passport issued to such persons.

I am, with great truth

most obedient,
humble Servant,

(For the Marquess of Lansdowne)—

ANNEX.

"This Passport is granted with the qualification that the holder is, within the limits of the Colony in which he was naturalized, a British Colonial subject by naturalization, and is only entitled beyond the limits of that Colony as a matter of courtesy to the general good offices and assistance of His Majesty's Representatives abroad."

versus

CAPELLO and GOMES.

The plaintiff in this action claims from the defendants the sum of $175 with interest and costs being amount of a certain promissory note made by Capello in favour of Gomes and by him indorsed to the plaintiff. Capello has not appeared to the writ, and there will be judgment against him.

Gomes admits the indorsing of the note, but pleads that the note was signed by him for the accommodation of Capello with the knowledge of the plaintiff; that he, Gomes, never received notice of dishonour of the note; and that the plaintiff having given time to Capello to pay after the note became due he, Gomes, as an indorser is discharged. Gomes also, in the course of his argument, contended he was a surety and that he could not be sued until the principal debtor had been excused.

From the evidence it appears that Capello gave this note to the plaintiff, the consideration being the satisfaction of a previous note for $100 due by him to the plaintiff and $75 cash.

Plaintiff is the holder of the note for value and Gomes, even if he were the accommodating party, is liable on the note to the plaintiff although the plaintiff knew Gomes was an accommodating party, section 23 (2) Bills of Exchange Ordinance 1891. It is therefore immaterial to inquire whether the plaintiff knew or not that Gomes was an accommodating party. There is no evidence that plaintiff had knowledge: the evidence, brought out in cross-examination, of the witness Carvalho that Capello told da Silva that Gomes owed him some money and the $75 was to pay a telegram about the Syndicate seems to point that he had not knowledge.

The evidence of Carvalho shews that the day after the note became due he saw Gomes and told him "the note fell due yesterday, Capello is in the country and the note has not been paid by Capello, what are you (Gomes) going to do." This evidence is uncontradicted, Gomes not having thought fit to go into the witness box. Gomes contends that such a notice is not good as he should have been told he was to be held liable. I am of opinion the notice is a good one. By section 49 of the Bills of Exchange Ordinance, 1891, notice of dishonour may be given in writing or by personal communication and may be given in any terms which sufficiently identify the note and intimate that the note has been dishonoured by non-payment, see Byles on Bills 16 edition p. 226. The notice proved complies with the requirements of the law.

The question of giving indulgence to Capello hardly arises in this case. Gomes is not to my mind a surety, he is a person liable on the promissory note under the Bills of Exchange Ordinance, 1891. The indulgence alleged is, that the plaintiff gave time to Capello and did not sue him. The holder of a note may without discharging a surety defer suing as long as he pleases, he may even promise not to press the maker or not to sue him if the promise be not binding in law. In this case there is not the slightest evidence of any binding promise not to sue.

No question as to exoneration arises in this case. Gomes is liable not as a surety but as the indorser of the note, and his liability is such as is laid down in the Bills of Exchange Ordinance, 1891.

The defences set up by the defendant all fail, and there will be judgment against him as well as Capello for the amount sued for with interest and costs.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

THIS 3RD DAY OF DECEMBER, 1902.

GORDON, Appellant,

versus

GRAVESANDE, Respondent.

In this appeal a preliminary objection has been taken that section 16 of the Magistrate's Decisions (appeals) Ordinance, 1893, has not been complied with. The Appellant has lodged with the magistrate the sum of $10 to abide the costs of appeal: he has not lodged the amount allowed by the magistrate as costs against him. I am of opinion that under section 16 of the Ordinance, the appellant, whether he be plaintiff or defendant in the Court below, must deposit the amount of costs allowed by the magistrate against him as well as $10 to abide the cost of appeal, if he elects to lodge money instead of entering into a recognizance. It was stated by the solicitor for the appellant, that section 16 was repealed; but it was not stated how or by what Ordinance. I do not know of any law repealing the section. As in my opinion, section 16 has not been complied with, I must under section 23, dismiss this appeal and affirm the decision of the magistrate with costs of appeal against the appellant.

GENERAL CIVIL JURISDICTION.

THIS 9TH DAY OF DECEMBER, 1902.

In Re J. R. NEBLETT, Solicitor.

By an order of this Court dated the 13th of November, 1902, and served on J. R. Neblett personally on the 15th of the same month, he was required to appear before the Court on the 25th of November last, and show cause why his name should not be struck off the Roll of the Court, and in compliance with that order he has appeared and addressed the Court on his own behalf. No evidence has been tendered by him, and his address is, in effect (what it has been stated by him to be), an appeal to the Court for merciful consideration.

The Order of the 13th of November last was based on facts brought to the knowledge of the Court by two petitions and the proceedings consequential thereon, the two petitioners being sisters and both elderly Portuguese women, illiterate and in humble circumstances. The principal facts admitted or otherwise established may be shortly stated, as follows:—In 1891, one of the petitioners retained J. R. Neblett to recover the sum of $550 and interest alleged to be owing to her on a promissory note of one J. de Freitas, and the other petitioner retained him to defend an action brought against her by the said J. de Freitas for an alleged debt of $160. Between 22nd August and 30th December various sums, in the aggregate amounting to $804 57, were paid by the petitioners to J. R. Neblett or his clerk, Mr. Belmonte. In the first mentioned action judgment was given for the plaintiff on the 23rd December, 1901, and the second action was withdrawn on the 2nd January, 1902. On the 20th January, 1902, (i.e. about three weeks later) the petitioners presented their first petition to the Court, alleging that they believed they had overpaid their solicitor; that the receipts for the moneys paid by them had been shown to the Registrar who had "interviewed Mr. Neblett, but to no effect"; that they had without effect asked J. R. Neblett for a statement of his disbursements and fees, and for a refund of any balance payable to them; and the petitioners prayed for an order directing him to furnish a statement of all sums received by him and of all his disbursements, including his own fees and the fees of two barristers employed, and to pay the petitioners any balance that might be owing to them. On the 21st April, after report by J. R. Neblett and counter-report by the petitioners, an order was made directing him to furnish a written statement of the several sums received by him from the petitioners to cover fees, costs, charges or disbursements, showing the dates when the several sums were received and the purposes to which they had been applied. On 16th May, J. R. Neblett put in a statement in general terms and annexed to it two bills of costs, and a final order was made referring the petitioners to their ordinary remedy for taxation of the bills of costs. On the 6th August the petitioners presented their second petition, stating that they had had the two bills of costs between J. R. Neblett and themselves taxed, and that he had received in excess of the aggregate amount of the taxed bills the sum of $579 13, and the petitioners prayed that he might be ordered to deposit that amount in the Registry of Court. On the 21st August, Smith, acting C.J., having heard the petitioners and J. R. Neblett, made an order directing J. R. Neblett to lodge with the Registrar by 4 p.m. on the 22nd August, a written statement showing the purposes to which the sum of $839 57, "admitted to have been received by him from the petitioners on account of fees and disbursements" had been applied. No such statement was deposited, but on the consideration of the petition being resumed and J. R. Neblett and the petitioners again heard, the somewhat large amount of $258 50, alleged by J. R. Neblett to have been expended in so-called retainers to counsel, but which he had no claim in the bills of costs sent in and taxed, and of which a large part was repaid to him by one of the barristers, was allowed to be set off against the moneys paid to him, and an order was made directing him to pay the petitioners the sum of $313 60, being the amount found by the Acting Chief Justice to be due to them. This order was not complied with, but on the 19th of November, the order already mentioned to show cause having been made, $313 60 was, by permission of the Court, received by the Registrar from J. R. Neblett without prejudice to these proceedings.

In his address to the Court Mr. Neblett has contended that, apart from his civil liability to repay any moneys received by his clerk Belmonte, he is no wise responsible or blameworthy in respect of such moneys; that they were received by his clerk without his knowledge and never accounted for to him; that he threatened to take criminal proceedings against Belmonte in respect of those moneys, and was only prevented so doing by the entreaties of Belmonte's friends, but that he dismissed Belmonte before the petitioners' first petition was presented. Mr. Neblett also contended that from physical infirmity he was obliged to employ others to aid him in his work, and was obliged to rely on them more than other solicitors would find necessary. We are unable to see that either of these contentions can be relied on. Mr. Neblett's imperfection of sight which does not prevent his countersigning cheques or render him incapable of examining accounts, is not a sufficient excuse for his behaviour in this matter, and the accusation of criminal misconduct now put forward against his clerk is for the first time made at the close of these lengthy proceedings, and is not supported by any evidence. Belmonte may have been dismissed by Mr. Neblett before the first petition was presented, but there is no evidence in support of the statement that he was then dismissed, or was dismissed on account of the misappropriation of these or other moneys; on the contrary, not only did Mr. Neblett state in Court that although he knew Belmonte was receiving moneys on his behalf and told him to bring all receipts for counter-signature, he never forbade Belmonte's receiving money for him or took any steps to prevent clients making payments to Belmonte, but also a few days before the first petition was presented, Belmonte attended as his clerk at the hearing of a case in this Court, and on the 16th May last at the foot of the general statement already mentioned there appears this note above Mr. Neblett's signature:—"Amounts paid by you to Mr. Belmonte and applied as costs in the said matters by him, as shown by bill of costs hereto attached and prepared by him, &c." Even if the facts just mentioned were absent, the Court could not, on the present unsupported statement of Mr. Neblett, conclude Belmonte guilty of conduct amounting to a crime, and under all the circumstances sees no reason for holding that the fact that some of the moneys paid by the petitioners were paid to Belmonte, absolves Mr. Neblett from blame in this case.

From the facts already stated, which are established, it appears that between August and December, 1901, there was paid into Mr. Neblett's office an aggregate amount exceeding by $208 60 the total amount ($595 97) claimed by his untaxed bills of costs, and in respect of retainers, and greater by $313 60 than the sum ultimately allowed him. The aggregate amount so paid was, it is clear, largely in excess of what might reasonably have been required to meet any past or prospective outlay in the actions in which his services were retained, and as he has wholly failed to show that any of the moneys paid were paid in respect of other legal business those actions alone can be considered. These sums would not have been paid if not asked for, and there can we think be little doubt that they were paid by these women in reliance on their legal adviser's representations that the moneys were required for the purposes of the proceedings in which they were then concerned. Clients (with but few exceptions) cannot themselves estimate the sums reasonably necessary for carrying on legal proceedings and are forced to rely on their solicitor's representations in the matter, and if a solicitor in abuse of the confidence reposed in him, either in person or through his clerk, demands and receives sums largely in excess of what may reasonably be required, he is guilty of misconduct. Apart, however, from the question how the moneys were obtained by Mr. Neblett from his clients, it was his duty when it was brought to his notice that he had been overpaid, to return to them any excess in his hands. This he has failed to do from January last, when his clients asked for a statement and settlement of accounts, up to 19th November last, objections of many kind having been raised, many of which he has never attempted to sustain. Even if when a demand was first made on him he was uncertain of its validity, it is difficult to see on what ground, after bills of costs were rendered, the excess over the amount of the untaxed bills and of any so-called retainers, was not at once paid, and after those bills were taxed non-payment (no excuse for withholding the money being shewn) was still more reprehensible, and after the order of the 23rd of August was made, the continued withholding of the petitioners' money was altogether indefensible. The fact, which has come to light in the course of these proceedings, that Mr. Neblett kept no books and therefore had some difficulty in dealing with this matter is in our opinion, an aggravation and not an extenuation of his misconduct. It is the duty of solicitors to keep proper books shewing their receipts and disbursements on behalf of their clients, and the omission to keep such books cannot be regarded as any palliation of misconduct such as that now under consideration. Proceedings like the present, are not for the purpose of enforcing a solicitor's civil liability, but are an exercise of the Court's punitive and disciplinary jurisdiction over its own officers and are intended for the punishment of their misconduct or the enforcing of honourable conduct on their part.

It has been said by Mr. Neblett that his past career as a solicitor has been free from reproach. We regret to say the records of the Court do not altogether sustain that statement; but the Court will not enter further into that on this occasion. Mr. Neblett was, however, bound, in the performance of his duty as a solicitor to render accounts to his clients and to refund the money which he had improperly obtained in excess of his fees and disbursements without any delay, without rendering it necessary for them to apply to the Court in the matter. Not having done so, he has been guilty of misconduct as an officer of the Court which cannot be overlooked. The Court recognizes that he has taken steps to restore their money to his clients, but such restoration has been delayed till the very last moment. In the hope, however, that his future conduct will be such as becomes an officer of this Court and a member of the honourable profession to which he belongs, and with the object of enabling him to redeem his reputation, the Court abstains from imposing the extreme penalty of removal of his name from the Roll of the Court, but cannot do less than order that he be suspended from practising as a solicitor for twelve months from the date of this Order.

Clerk of the Council.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

THIS 12TH DAY OF DECEMBER, 1902.

WILLIAMS, Appellant.

versus
DORMAN, Respondent.

This is an appeal from a decision of Mr. F. A. Gall, Stipendiary Magistrate, East Coast Judicial District, convicting the appellant on a charge of unlawfully throwing a stone at a carriage on the Demerara Railway, and sentencing her to pay a fine of $25 and costs.

The reasons for appeal are (1) that the decision is erroneous in law, (a) there having been no complainant before the Court, (b) the capacity in which the complainant prosecuted, though alleged in the complaint not having been proved at the hearing, and (c) the magistrate having been influenced by his previous decision in another case, and (2) that the decision is altogether unwarranted by the evidence.

The complainant was not present at the hearing but was represented by counsel. It is urged that the language of section 27 and section 28 (4), of the Summary Conviction Offences (Procedure) Ordinance, 1893, necessitates the personal appearance of a complainant at the hearing of a complaint for a summary conviction offence. Those sections if standing alone might require to be so construed, but having regard to section 8 (3) which permits a complainant to make his complaint by counsel, to section 23, which entitles a complainant to conduct his case by counsel and to section 24 which prevents the dismissal of a complaint for non-appearance of a complainant, if he appears by counsel, section 27 cannot be held in my opinion to require an appearance in person and section 28 (4) must be construed as meaning that the case put forward by or on behalf of the complainant and not necessarily the complainant himself, shall be heard.

In the complaint the complainant is described as being "General Manager of the Demerara Railway Company" but no evidence of this statement was given. As, however, the complainant's right to make the complaint in no wise depended on his being General Manager of the Demerara Railway Company, the complaint being one which under section 6 of the Summary Conviction Offences (Procedure) Ordinance, 1893, could be made by any person, the description in the complaint was mere surplusage and did not require proof.

There is no evidence of the Magistrate's having been influenced by a previous decision of his in another case, the remark he is alleged to have made when passing sentence, namely, that he would impose the same penalty as the one he had imposed in a previous case which was between different parties and under a different statute, being insufficient to sustain any such inference.

The sole question which remains is whether the decision is unwarranted by the evidence, or (since this Court does not interfere with a magistrate's decision as to the weight of evidence) whether there is sufficient evidence to sustain the conviction. It is urged that the evidence identifying the appellant with the person who threw the stone is insufficient. The reason given by the magistrate for disbelieving the evidence for the defence brought to prove an alibi is no doubt inapplicable to some of that evidence, but the magistrate states that he believed the evidence for the prosecution and as two witnesses for the prosecution state they saw the appellant throw something into the carriage and afterwards saw it was a stone, it is impossible to say the evidence of identification was insufficient.

The Court has been asked to reduce the penalty imposed by the magistrate, in the event of the conviction being upheld, that penalty being the maximum allowed by law and the appellant being only about 20 years of age. As, however, was said by Smith, C. J., in Gilbert and another v Bovell, (28 Feb. 1898) the decision of a magistrate should not be interfered with unless it is quite clear that the sentence is excessive, as he has had a better opportunity of forming an opinion of the gravity of the case than can be formed merely from a perusal of the notes of the evidence. In the present case the offence is one of some gravity, the stone was thrown (according to the magistrate's) finding, by one of a large number of persons who were waving sticks and flags and the stone was thrown into a carriage in which it could be seen persons were travelling, and the throwing of it was attended with some risk to them. I may think I might have imposed a smaller penalty, but I am not satisfied that the case is one in which I should interfere with the magistrate's exercise of his discretion.

The magistrate's decision is therefore affirmed and the appeal dismissed with costs.

THE following Regulations relating to the use of the Post Office telephone lines and apparatus, made by the Postmaster General, under Section 91 of the Post and Telegraph Ordinance, 1893, and approved by the Governor and Court of Policy, on the 26th day of November, 1902, are hereby published for general information.

By Command,

J. HAMPDEN KING,

Clerk of the Court.

REGULATIONS RELATING TO THE USE OF THE POST OFFICE TELEPHONE LINES AND APPARATUS :—

PART I.

Town and Suburban Telephone Services.

1. These regulations may be cited for all purposes as the Post Office Telephone Regulations 1902,

2. In these regulations the term "business premises" includes—

- (a.) Any room or place adjacent to any store or shop and occupied by the same person.
- (b.) Any residence of a Medical Practitioner in private practice.
- (c.) Any residence of a professional person who carries on business at such residence.
- (d.) Any Club.
- (e.) Any boarding house where there are not less than six boarders.

3. Before the erection of any line and apparatus is commenced by the Postmaster General, the applicant shall sign an agreement in the form contained in the schedule to these regulations, undertaking to pay the rental in advance and to retain the line and apparatus in terms of these regulations for such period as may be determined upon in each case. All such agreements after the lapse of the period stated therein may be terminated by one month's notice in writing to the Postmaster General. Should such notice not be given a sum equal to one month's rental shall be charged to the renter.

4. The rent to be charged for each telephone line and apparatus within a limit of two miles from the Exchange shall be as follows :—

	Metallic Circuit.	Single Wire.
For business premises	...$36 per annum.	...$24 per annum.
For private residences	16 " "	12 " "

(2.) For services beyond such distance there shall be charged a further annual rental, that is to say,—

(a.) Where poles have not been specially erected and are not specially maintained for such service, for each additional quarter of a mile or portion thereof, the sum of $2 50, and

(b.) Where poles have been specially erected and are maintained for such service for each quarter of a mile or portion thereof, the sum of $5.

5. In cases where natural difficulties and extra expense, or natural difficulties or extra expense are or is involved in the construction or maintenance of a telephone line, the Postmaster General shall have the right of charging special rates.

6. Where any extra or special form of apparatus or appliance is fitted up at the request of a renter the Postmaster General shall have the right to charge such higher rate as may be considered necessary.

7. All charges shall be payable at the General Post Office in advance and the rent quarterly in advance. If the rent be not paid within 10 days after it has become due the Service may be discontinued without prejudice to the right of the Postmaster General to recover the rental for the remainder of the term stipulated in the agreement. Provided that in the event of a connection being required from a date other than the first day of a quarter the first payment shall include the rent for the broken period in addition to the first quarter's rent. The quarter days shall be the 1st of January, 1st of April, 1st of July, and 1st of October, in each year.

8. A change of residence, office or place of business, shall be treated as a new service unless the additional expenses incurred in the removal of the telephone line and apparatus are borne by the renter. The Postmaster General may, if he thinks fit before commencing such removal, require a deposit of any sum not exceeding five dollars to cover the cost thereof.

9. Any damage to the line or apparatus arising through wilful act or default of the renter or his servants or agents, shall be made good at his expense, and the renter shall, on demand, repay to the Postmaster General the cost thereof. No alteration shall be made in the line or apparatus either permanently or temporarily, except with the permission in writing of the Postmaster General. In the event of the partial or total destruction by fire or other causes of the apparatus and appliances supplied for the use of the renter, such renter shall be liable for the cost of replacing the same.

10. Two or more persons occupying offices in the same building may be connected up under the same Exchange number on payment of the usual rental for connection with the Exchange, and an additional rent of six dollars per annum for every additional set of telephone apparatus supplied.

11. Where a renter requires more than one set of telephone apparatus for use in the same building, the rent of such additional apparatus, including a switch, shall be six dollars per annum. If in a separate building or adjoining premises, a special charge shall be made according to distance.

12. Local switchboards when required shall be supplied and afterwards maintained at an annual rent of $2 50, the renter to provide at his own cost for the attendance at the same. The rent of each extra set of telephone apparatus connected to a local switchboard shall be five dollars per annum over and above the charge for the first connection with the Exchange.

13. The renter shall be furnished by the Postmaster General with a list of persons with whom he may communicate by telephone and as new renters are connected with the system, notification thereof shall, from time to time, be given by the Manager of the Exchange. The names of partners or firms and names in addition to those of the renter may be inserted in the list at the request of the renter in connection with his number for an extra charge of 10 cents for each additional entry.

14. The use of the telephone is restricted to the individual, firm, corporation, or house represented by the renter, and no renter shall permit his telephone to be used by any person who is not himself a renter. In any case where it is found that the telephone has been made use of by some person other than the renter, or on his behalf, the Postmaster General may discontinue the service by notice in writing as from the time of serving such notice, or from some other time specified in such notice, but such discontinuance shall not affect the right of the Postmaster General to recover any rent or other money which may be in arrear or unpaid.

15. The Postmaster General may, with the approval of the Governor, suspend the working of any telephone line or Exchange either permanently or for any period which may be considered necessary. No charge shall be made for any period during which communication is suspended, and any rent which may have been paid in advance for the time the line is withdrawn from use shall be refunded, unless such suspension be in consequence of any breach by the renter of these regulations. Any temporary suspension shall not absolve the renter from payment of rent up to the expiration of the term provided for in the agreement.

16. The Postmaster General may exclude any renter from the Exchange and may remove or cause to be removed any line and apparatus or appliances allotted to him,—

- (a.) If he allows his telephone to be wilfully damaged or put to improper use :
- (b.) If the connections of the apparatus have been altered without the authority of the Postmaster General : and
- (c.) In case of improper conduct to the Exchange Office on the part of a renter or any person using his telephone.

17. The renter shall be responsible for any breach of these regulations in respect of any line or apparatus which may be rented by him, and should any wire be disconnected or apparatus be removed for any breach of these regulations the renter shall have no claim for damages against the Postmaster General.

18. The renter shall notify the Electrician to the Post Office in writing of any fault he may observe in the working of his line or apparatus and failing the receipt of such notification the line and apparatus may be considered to be in good working order.

19. In case of any accident to line or apparatus every effort will be made by the Electrician to repair the same as soon as possible after the receipt by him of a written notice from the renter, but the Postmaster General shall not be held liable for any loss occasioned by the total or partial interruption of telephonic communication, nor shall any abatement be made from the rent by reason of any interruption continuing for less than seventy-two hours after the receipt of such written notice.

20. All wires, apparatus, batteries and appliances supplied under these regulations shall be the exclusive property of the Postmaster General and may be removed by him upon the determination of the agreement. For this purpose he or his officers shall have free access to the premises of the renter. The Postmaster General or any Officer appointed by him shall also have free access at all reasonable times for alterations and repairs and for inspection purposes.

21. The renter may send telegrams by means of his telephone line to the Central Telegraph Office to be forwarded on to their destination by the telegraph lines, or by post, or if the address of delivery be within a reasonable distance, by messenger, subject as follows :—

(1.) The renter shall pay to the Postmaster General in respect of every such telegram forwarded by telegraph the same sum for transmission and portage as would be payable if the same had been handed in at a Postal Telegraph Office ;

(2.) The renter shall pay to the Postmaster General in respect of every such telegram forwarded by post the ordinary postage payable on such letter and an additional fee of 2 cents ; and

(3.) The renter shall pay to the Postmaster General in respect of every such telegram delivered by messenger a sum of 4 cents, if the address of delivery is within the ordinary free delivery district, and in every other case the same sum as would be payable for portage in respect of an ordinary telegram delivered from the General Post Office at the same address.

22. All sums payable by the renter in respect of telegrams forwarded as aforesaid shall be paid in advance by means of a deposit with the Postmaster General, and the Postmaster General shall not be required to forward any such telegram unless the sum for the time being in his hands on account of such deposit is sufficient to cover the cost of such telegram.

23. All sums paid out of the deposit in respect of telegrams forwarded as aforesaid on behalf of the renter from the General Post Office, shall be repaid as soon as an account for the same has been rendered to the renter by or on behalf of the Postmaster General.

24. Whenever a telegram addressed to the renter is received by telegraph at the General Post Office, the same shall, if practicable, be transmitted without delay to the renter by means of the telephone, and subsequently delivered by first post, unless an agreement to the contrary is made with the Postmaster General.

25. The Postmaster General may establish temporary and permanent Public Call Offices at convenient points in connection with any telephone Exchange to which any one shall be admitted for the purpose of communicating with other Call Offices or Exchange Renters connected with the same Exchange system.

26. The fees chargeable for the use of a Call Office shall be as follows:—

	Renters.	Non-Renters.
For communication with any renter or Call Office connected with the Local Exchange for a period not exceeding 3 minutes ...	free	6c.
For every additional 3 minutes or portion of that period ...	free	6c.

27. No person shall be permitted to use a Call Office for more than six minutes consecutively if other applicants are waiting to use it, and in cases where the line may be engaged applications shall be registered and connections made in the order of application.

28. Cards of identification shall be issued to all Renters and must be produced on every occasion on which application is made for the use of a Call Office.

29. At any Call Office which is not a Telegraph Office, ordinary telegrams shall be accepted for transmission to and delivery from any Telegraph Office on payment of the customary telegraph charges.

30. All such telegrams must be written on telegraph forms and when handed in at a Call Office shall be subject to the regulations governing the transmission of ordinary telegrams. No telegrams shall be delivered from Call Offices which are not also Telegraph Stations.

PART II.

(a.) Where poles have not been specially erected and are not specially maintained for such service, for each quarter of a mile or portion thereof, the sum of $3, and

(2.) The rent charged for each set of telephone apparatus shall be $10 per annum, and such charge shall include maintenance, repairs, and renewals;

(3.) Ordinary switches when required shall be supplied and afterwards maintained at an annual rental of $1 each. Switches, if specially made to suit the requirements of the Renter, will be charged for specially;

(7.) Where a sufficient number of lines are led into a Postal Telegraph Office, the Postmaster General may, subject to the approval of the Governor, open an Exchange and provide means whereby any two lines may be joined together at will in order that messages may be transmitted direct by one private line renter to another; and (8.) Where an Exchange is opened, the terms to each renter may be modified, subject to such regulations as may be made in that behalf.

32. All Regulations relating to the Government telephone wires and apparatus made previously to the passing of these Regulations are hereby repealed. SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

LIMITED JURISDICTION.

THIS 13TH DAY OF DECEMBER, 1902.

FARMER, & CO.

versus

H. CONRAD, & Co.

This is an application on behalf of the defendants for an order on the plaintiffs to give security for costs. The plaintiffs are resident out of the jurisdiction, and it may be said that it is an inflexible rule that plaintiffs resident out of the jurisdiction should be ordered to give security unless it is shown they have substantial property within the jurisdiction.

It is, however, contended on behalf of the plaintiffs that the real substantial position of the parties is to be looked at, that in this case according to the pleadings, the defendants have really admitted the plaintiffs' claim, their defence being in effect a counter claim and that therefore the defendants are really in the position of plaintiffs. The case of Winterfield v Bradnum, 3 Q. B. D. 324, was quoted as supporting the plaintiffs' contention. In that case the defendant admitted the plaintiffs' claim, but counter claimed to an amount exceeding the plaintiffs' claim; the counter claim arose out of a different transaction from that in respect of which the plaintiff was suing. It was stated by Bramwell, L. J., that the defendant may be entitled to security on the ground of the plaintiff being a foreigner residing abroad, although the defendant's real defence consists in his counter claim; he appears, however, to have affirmed the judgment of the Court below principally on the ground that he thought it was wrong to encourage appeals of the sort. In this case the defendants have not counter claimed but have stated by way of defence that they were agents of the plaintiffs and are entitled to a credit in the accounts between them of a certain sum of money they were obliged to pay as damages by reason of the plaintiffs not having sent the goods at the time agreed. Even if it were a counter claim it arises out of the same transaction in respect of which the plaintiffs are suing. The cases of Neck v Taylor, (1893), 1 Q. B. 560, and Mapleson v Masini, 5 Q. B. D. 144, were also quoted but those cases relate to defendants being called upon to give security in respect of their counter claims. The case of Mapleson v Masini seems to me to be more against than in favour of the plaintiffs' contention. I consider the defendants are entitled to the order they ask for. I think the cost of this application should be costs in the cause. I agree with the plaintiffs' contention that three affidavits in support of the motion were unnecessary, all necessary facts could have been stated in one and I disallow the costs of two affidavits under O. xlv. r. 14.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

THIS 17TH DAY OF DECEMBER, 1902.

SUMNER, Appellant,

versus

BAYLEY, Respondent.

This is an appeal from a decision of Mr. F. A. Gall' Stipendiary Magistrate, East Coast Judicial District, convicting the appellant of unlawfully obstructing the respondent while making a lawful survey.

The reasons for appeal are (1) that the decision is erroneous in law on various grounds which are specified; (2) that certain illegal evidence mentioned in the reasons for appeal was admitted and that without it there was not sufficient legal evidence to sustain the decision; and (3) that the decision is altogether unwarranted by the evidence.

The only one of these reasons which it is necessary to discuss is the first, namely, that the decision is erroneous in law on the grounds (among others) that section 15, of the Land Surveyor's Ordinance, 1891, was not complied with, no notice having been given to the owners of some of the lands adjacent to the lands intended to be surveyed, and that the defendant acted bona fide in preventing the Surveyor's assistants entering this land and was not proved to have committed any offence.

The evidence noted on the proceedings is very general and it is difficult to obtain from it precise information as to all the facts. It appears, however, to be clearly established that a survey was about to be made of a strip of land belonging to the Demerara Railway Company, lying between plantation Belfield on the east, and plantation Cove and John on the west, and bounded on the north and south by lands forming part of Victoria village, and that the survey was to be made to determine the N. and S. boundaries of the Railway Co.'s land; that one Rachel Thomas and her brother owned, or were at any rate in possession of certain land adjacent to the Railway Co.'s land on the south; that no notice of the intended survey was given to either of them; that the surveyor directed his assistant to cross a trench lying somewhere to the south of the railway and erect two sticks on certain land on the other side of the trench; and that the assistant attempted to cross the trench by means of a board lying across it and was prevented so doing by the defendant. It is also I think, reasonably clear, from the notes of evidence read in the light of the magistrate's reasons for his decision, that the land whereon the sticks were to be erected was the land occupied by R. Thomas and her brother, and that the entry to it was by way of the board just mentioned. It was urged by counsel that there was sufficient evidence of obstruction by threats to sustain the decision if the other evidence of obstruction by preventing the Surveyor's assistant crossing the trench was insufficient, but I think the evidence of any obstruction by threats is too weak and general to be relied on, and it clearly was not the basis of the magistrate's decision.

The Magistrate, in his reasons for his decision, states that the defendant had "nothing to do with this land either as the owner or occupier," and that he attached no credence to the evidence that the defendant was told by the owners or one of them, not to let any one come over the board on to the land. This, however, was not decisive of the question at issue before him. It may be the case that the defendant, assuming the facts proved had been a sufficient basis for such a charge could not have justified any assault or use of force to prevent entry on lands of which he was not the owner or occupier, and which he was not employed by the owner or occupier to defend, but that was a question quite distinct from the one before the Court, which was whether the defendant was guilty of the specific offence, under sect. 33 of the Land Surveyors' Ordinance, 1891, with which he was charged, namely, the obstructing of a lawful survey. The words "any lawful survey," in sect. 33, were held by Smith, J. in Brush v. Shannon, (31st July, 1902), to mean any survey which is lawful under the Ordinance. Whether the Ordinance must in all respects be complied with before any offence can be committed under that section, it is unnecessary in this case to determine, but in my opinion that section can, if given the widest interpretation, apply only to cases where a Surveyor making a survey is obstructed in doing something, which under the Ordinance or the general law, he can lawfully do. The general law gives a Surveyor no authority to enter on lands adjacent to those he is employed to survey, and sect. 15 of the Ordinance requires notice in the prescribed form to be given to the owners or persons in possession of adjacent lands when a survey is to be made to determine boundaries unless (which is not shewn to be the case in the present instance) the parties agree to dispense with notice, a penalty being imposed by sub-section (3) of that section on any Surveyor entering without giving the prescribed notice, on "any such land," an expression which can only, I think, mean any land adjacent to that about to be surveyed. It follows from this enactment that entry by a Surveyor on any such land without giving the prescribed notice is prohibited and made illegal (in re Cork and Youghal R. Co., per Lord Hatherley, L.R. 4 Ch. at p. 758); and therefore in the present case (if the evidence of obstruction be held sufficient) all that is proved is that the surveyor was obstructed in entering without previous notice on lands on which it was unlawful for him to enter without such notice. This is not in my opinion an offence within sect. 33 of the Ordinance and the Magistrate's decision must therefore be reversed and the appeal allowed with costs.

It is unnecessary in view of the foregoing to express any opinion on the several points argued under the reasons of appeal other than the one already considered.

By Command,

Clerk of the Court.

REGULATIONS RELATING TO THE USE OF THE POST OFFICE TELEPHONE LINES AND APPARATUS:—

PART I.

Town and Suburban Telephone Services.

1. These regulations may be cited for all purposes as the Post Office Telephone Regulations, 1902,
2. In these regulations the term "business premises" includes—
 - (a.) Any room or place adjacent to any store or shop and occupied by the same person.
 - (b.) Any residence of a Medical Practitioner in private practice.
 - (c.) Any residence of a professional person who carries on business at such residence.
 - (d.) Any Club.
 - (e.) Any boarding house where there are not less than six boarders.
3. Before the erection of any line and apparatus is commenced by the Postmaster General, the applicant shall sign an agreement in the form contained in the schedule to these regulations, undertaking to pay the rental in advance and to retain the line and apparatus in terms of these regulations for such period as may be determined upon in each case. All such agreements after the lapse of the period stated therein may be terminated by one month's notice in writing to the Postmaster General. Should such notice not be given a sum equal to one month's rental shall be charged to the renter.

4. The rent to be charged for each telephone line and apparatus within a limit of two miles from the Exchange shall be as follows :—

	Metallic Circuit.	Single Wire.
For business premises	.. $36 per annum.	...$24 per annum.
For private residences	16 " "	12 " "

(a.) Where poles have not been specially erected and are not specially maintained for such service, for each additional quarter of a mile or portion thereof, the sum of $2 50, and

(b.) Where poles have been specially erected and are maintained for such service for each quarter of a mile or portion thereof, the sum of $5.

5. In cases where natural difficulties and extra expense, or natural difficulties or extra expense are or is involved in the construction or maintenance of a telephone line, the Postmaster General shall have the right of charging special rates.

6. Where any extra or special form of apparatus or appliance is fitted up at the request of a renter the Postmaster General shall have the right to charge such higher rate as may be considered necessary.

7. All charges shall be payable at the General Post Office in advance and the rent quarterly in advance. If the rent be not paid within 10 days after it has become due the Service may be discontinued without prejudice to the right of the Postmaster General to recover the rental for the remainder of the term stipulated in the agreement. Provided that in the event of a connection being required from a date other than the first day of a quarter the first payment shall include the rent for the broken period in addition to the first quarter's rent. The quarter days shall be the 1st of January, 1st of April, 1st of July, and 1st of October, in each year.

8. A change of residence, office or place of business, shall be treated as a new service unless the additional expenses incurred in the removal of the telephone line and apparatus are borne by the renter. The Postmaster General may, if he thinks fit before commencing such removal, require a deposit of any sum not exceeding five dollars to cover the cost thereof.

9. Any damage to the line or apparatus arising through wilful act or default of the renter or his servants or agents, shall be made good at his expense, and the renter shall, on demand, repay to the Postmaster General the cost thereof. No alteration shall be made in the line or apparatus either permanently or temporarily except with the permission in writing of the Postmaster General. In the event of the partial or total destruction by fire or other causes of the apparatus and appliances supplied for the use of the renter, such renter shall be liable for the cost of replacing the same.

10. Two or more persons occupying offices in the same building may be connected up under the same Exchange number on payment of the usual rental for connection with the Exchange, and an additional rent of six dollars per annum for every additional set of telephone apparatus supplied.

11. Where a renter requires more than one set of telephone apparatus for use in the same building, the rent of such additional apparatus, including a switch, shall be six dollars per annum. If in a separate building on adjoining premises, a special charge shall be made according to distance.

12. Local switchboards when required shall be supplied and afterwards maintained at an annual rent of $2 50, the renter to provide at his own cost for the attendance at the same. The rent of each extra set of telephone apparatus connected to a local switchboard shall be five dollars per annum over and above the charge for the first connection with the Exchange.

13. The renter shall be furnished by the Postmaster General with a list of persons with whom he may communicate by telephone and as new renters are connected with the system, notification thereof shall, from time to time, be given by the Manager of the Exchange. The names of partners or firms and names in addition to those of the renter may be inserted in the list at the request of the renter in connection with his number for an extra charge of 10 cents for each additional entry.

14. The use of the telephone is restricted to the individual, firm, corporation, or house represented by the renter, and no renter shall permit his telephone to be used by any person who is not himself a renter. In any case where it is found that the telephone has been made use of by some person other than the renter, or on his behalf, the Postmaster General may discontinue the service by notice in writing as from the time of serving such notice, or from some other time specified in such notice, but such discontinuance shall not affect the right of the Postmaster General to recover any rent or other money which may be in arrear or unpaid.

15. The Postmaster General may, with the approval of the Governor, suspend the working of any telephone line or Exchange either permanently or for any period which may be considered necessary. No charge shall be made for any period during which communication is suspended, and any rent which may have been paid in advance for the time the line is withdrawn from use shall be refunded, unless such suspension be in consequence of any breach by the renter of these regulations. Any temporary suspension shall not absolve the renter from payment of rent up to the expiration of the term provided for in the agreement.

16. The Postmaster General may exclude any renter from the Exchange and may remove or cause to be removed any line and apparatus or appliances allotted to him,—

- (a.) If he allows his telephone to be wilfully damaged or put to improper use :
- (b.) If the connections of the apparatus have been altered without the authority of the Postmaster General : and
- (c.) In case of improper conduct to the Exchange Office on the part of a renter or any person using his telephone.

17. The renter shall be responsible for any breach of these regulations in respect of any line or apparatus which may be rented by him, and should any wire be disconnected or apparatus be removed for any breach of these regulations the renter shall have no claim for damages against the Postmaster General.

18. The renter shall notify the Electrician to the Post Office in writing of any fault he may observe in the working of his line or apparatus and failing the receipt of such notification the line and apparatus may be considered to be in good working order.

19. In case of any accident to line or apparatus every effort will be made by the Electrician to repair the same as soon as possible after the receipt by him of a written notice from the renter, but the Postmaster General shall not be held liable for any loss occasioned by the total or partial interruption of telephonic communication, nor shall any abatement be made from the rent by reason of any interruption continuing for less than seventy-two hours after the receipt of such written notice.

20. All wires, apparatus, batteries and appliances supplied under these regulations shall be the exclusive property of the Postmaster General and may be removed by him upon the determination of the agreement. For this purpose he or his officers shall have free access to the premises of the renter. The Postmaster General or any Officer appointed by him shall also have free access at all reasonable times for alterations and repairs and for inspection purposes.

21. The renter may send telegrams by means of his telephone line to the Central Telegraph Office to be forwarded on to their destination by the telegraph lines, or by post, or if the address of delivery be within a reasonable distance, by messenger, subject as follows :—

(1.) The renter shall pay to the Postmaster General in respect of every such telegram forwarded by telegraph the same sum for transmission and portage as would be payable if the same had been handed in at a Postal Telegraph Office ;

(2.) The renter shall pay to the Postmaster General in respect of every such telegram forwarded by post the ordinary postage payable on such letter and an additional fee of 2 cents ; and

(3.) The renter shall pay to the Postmaster General in respect of every such telegram delivered by messenger a sum of 4 cents, if the address of delivery is within the ordinary free delivery district, and in every other case the same sum as would be payable for portage in respect of an ordinary telegram delivered from the General Post Office at the same address.

22. All sums payable by the renter in respect of telegrams forwarded as aforesaid shall be paid in advance by means of a deposit with the Postmaster General, and the Postmaster General shall not be required to forward any such telegram unless the sum for the time being in his hands on account of such deposit is sufficient to cover the cost of such telegram.

23. All sums paid out of the deposit in respect of telegrams forwarded as aforesaid on behalf of the renter from the General Post Office, shall be repaid as soon as an account for the same has been rendered to the renter by or on behalf of the Postmaster General.

24. Whenever a telegram addressed to the renter is received by telegraph at the General Post Office, the same shall, if practicable, be transmitted without delay to the renter by means of the telephone, and subsequently delivered by first post, unless an agreement to the contrary is made with the Postmaster General.

25. versus

WHARTON, Respondent

One of the reasons of appeal filed by the appellant is:—"That illegal evidence was admitted by the Magistrate's Court, and that there is not sufficient legal evidence to sustain the decision, after rejecting such illegal evidence." This reason to my mind does not comply with section 10 of the Magistrates Decisions (Appeals) Ordinance, 1893. That section provides that the appellant shall set forth in his reasons of appeal the particular matter on which he relies so as to inform the Magistrate, the opposite party, and the Court thereof, and examples are given of the particularity required. I consider that the nature or effect of the illegal evidence alleged to have been admitted should be set out, and the reason why the admission of the evidence is alleged to be illegal should also be set out just as in the example given in the section as to setting out particulars in the reason "that the decision is erroneous in point of law." Unless particulars are given an appellant would simply have to set out all the reasons mentioned in section 9 of the Ordinance.

Neither the magistrate, the opposite party, nor the Court would know what were the particular matters complained of. I therefore hold the reason of appeal is bad.

The appellant has applied for leave to amend under section 25 of the Ordinance and to file an affidavit to show that certain objections were taken in the Court below. I do not consider section 25 applies to the present case, it only applies to where there is some defect in setting forth any reason of appeal which can be forthwith amended. It does not contemplate the drawing of practically a new reason of appeal. The granting of leave to amend is purely discretionary and I see no reason why leave should be granted in this case; more especially as the amendment is sought for the purpose of raising an objection which in no way affects the merits of the case.

I cannot therefore grant the appellant's application.

A. V. LUCIE SMITH, J.

PAYNE, Appellant

versus

SHARPLES, Respondent.

This is an appeal from a judgment for the respondent given by Mr. S. G. T. Bourke, acting Police Magistrate of Georgetown, in an action brought against the appellant, as having in marriage in community of property, Mary E. Payne, to recover the balance of an account alleged to be due, owing and payable by the appellant to the respondent for the price of goods sold and delivered by the respondent to the appellant's wife, Mary E. Payne, at her request.

From the evidence it appears that the goods supplied were tacouba posts, paling staves, boards, mora stretchers and nails; that they were ordered by and delivered to Mary E. Payne, who has for more than 16 years been living apart from her husband; that the respondent never saw the appellant when the goods were ordered or when money was paid on account of them by Mary E. Payne, who, at the time the respondent accepted the order, said she was a widow and employed at the Hospital; and that the appellant never authorized her to purchase the goods and did not receive any of them.

The Magistrate held that under the Marriage Laws of the colony the appellant was liable for the goods supplied to his wife. From this decision the present appeal has been made, the reasons for appeal (stated shortly) being (1) that the decision is erroneous in law as no sale or delivery was made to the appellant, and his wife was not acting as his lawful agent in making the purchase, and (2) that the decision is wholly unwarranted by the evidence.

The general rule of the Roman Dutch law is that a woman married with community of goods cannot without her husband's knowledge or consent contract any debts or bind herself or her husband, except by transactions connected with any trade or business which she carries on openly and publicly, or in respect of reasonable household necessities or in cases where her husband has profited by her dealings. It is not contested in this case that the wife's so-called contracts, were entered into without her husband's knowledge or consent, but it is urged (1) that the appellant and his wife being married with community of goods, the things purchased became on delivery to her, their common property and the appellant was therefore liable to pay for them, and (2) that as the appellant's wife was living apart from him and it was not proved that she was doing so wrongfully, the appellant must according to the principle laid down in the case of Bishop v. Isaac (18th February, 1896), be held liable for all goods purchased by her. The decision in Bishop v. Isaac does not support the contention that a husband is liable for all debts contracted by his wife when living apart from her husband justifiably; as in that case it appears from the original record, the Magistrate based his decision on the ground that the husband was bound to supply his wife with necessities and that a domestic servant was under the circumstances a necessity, and this was not contested on appeal. In the present case there is no reason for holding that the goods purchased were necessities, and therefore even if it be conceded (though not proved) that Mary E. Payne was justified in living apart from her husband, the principle actually laid down in Bishop v. Isaac is inapplicable, and there is no authority which supports the principle which it was sought to extract from the decision in that case.

Nor in my opinion is it the law that the appellant and his wife being married in community, the appellant was liable to pay for the things purchased by her as they became on delivery to her their common property. The rule of law, as laid down in Grotius I. 5. 23 Voet ad Pand xxiii. 2 43, is that the husband apart from express or implied consent to, or ratification of his wife's contract is liable (except in the case of his wife carrying on a trade publicly and in the case of the purchase of household necessities) only when he has "profited" by his wife's dealings, or become richer thereby (cf. Burge Vol. I. p. 224); and in accordance with the principles laid down by the Roman Law in the analogous case of a pupil to whom a debt had been paid or who had made any purchase without the authority of his tutor (Ins. II. 8. 2. Dig. xlv. 1. 4., Dig. xxvi. 8. 5. 1) and by the Roman Dutch Law with reference to the last mentioned topic (cf. Voet xxiii. 2. 50) and to the actio de in rem verso (Voet ad Pand xv. 3. 2.), I think to render a husband liable in a case like the present, it is necessary to prove not only a delivery of goods to his wife but that he has been benefited or rendered richer thereby. There is no evidence of this nature in the present case, and the Magistrate's decision therefore cannot be supported on that ground. It is unnecessary to express any opinion on the question whether Mary E. Payne would be liable after the termination of the marriage as that point does not arise in this case.

The decision of the Magistrate is reversed, and the appeal allowed with costs.

HENRY A. BOVELL, C. J.

LIMITED JURISDICTION

THIS 19TH DAY OF DECEMBER, 1902.

GOMES

versus

YONG.

The plaintiff in this action claims from the defendant the sum of $114 59, being amount of two accounts for goods sold and delivered, goods carried, &c., the one account for $66 85, being alleged to be due to the plaintiff's Bartica business, and the other for $47 74 to the plaintiff's Cuyuni business. The defendant admitted owing the Bartica business $31 27, for which sum judgment was given and which had been paid to the plaintiff. The defendant alleges he is entitled to credit for $35 56 (the difference) as the plaintiff took over goods to that amount from the defendant's shop at St. John's landing. The defendant denies owing anything to the plaintiff's Cuyuni business, he alleges the goods were never delivered to his manager Lam, and that the defendant did not carry the goods from Central landing to St. John's landing in a reasonable time. The defendant also counter-claims for damages alleged to have been suffered by him by reason of the plaintiff not having delivered part of the goods given him for carriage and not having carried the goods from Central Landing to St. John's Landing within a reasonable time, whereby a large quantity of goods was damaged.

As regards the goods to the value of $35 56, alleged to have been taken over by the plaintiff from the defendant, James Lam, the defendant's manager, says that when he closed the shop at St. John's Landing, Waddell, the plaintiff's shop-keeper at St. John's, took over the defendant's goods remaining in stock, and took them to the plaintiff's shop, that the goods were valued at $35 56, that he got an order on Vieira, the plaintiff's manager in Cuyuni, and that Vieira gave an order on the plaintiff in exchange for Waddell's order. The so-called order is on a printed form taken evidently from a counterfoil book, and is in following terms:—

"No. 335, Cuyuni, 17 June, 1902.
"I owe Thomas Leow the sum of $35 56 (thirty-five dollars and fifty-six cents.)

(Sgd.) MANOEL VIEIRA."

Thomas Leow was the shopman of the defendant, working under James Lam, and the order appears to have been given in his name at Lam's request. Vieira, on the other hand, says that he made arrangements with James Lam for taking over some of the goods which had been sent by him to Quartz Stone in November, that he told Lam he could not buy for Gomes and that he took over the goods for his brother. Vieira says his brother was not there when he bought but he wrote and told him. I do not think Vieira's story is the correct one. From the evidence it appears that goods do not keep very long in the bush, and it appears to me improbable that Vieira would have purchased goods in June which he knew had been sent up in the October before. It is also clear that all the goods sent to Quartz Stone, except three half barrels of flour, were delivered to Lam, Vieira would not have paid $35 56 for these three half barrels. Further Vieira admits, in his cross-examination, that Waddell did take over the balance of goods of defendant's shop at St. John's and sent him a letter not an order. He also states he gave the so-called order and told Leow to go with it to Mr. Gomes, and if he did not pay he (Vieira) would. Vieira says the order was taken from his own counterfoil book. It seems peculiar why a manager of another man's business should require a counterfoil book and why he should have used 335 so-called orders. Gomes states that Vieira had no right to buy goods and that orders on him for the business are never sent in that form by Vieira. Jardim, who is Gomes's clerk in town, however, says that this order is the usual order sent by Vieira on which payments are made. Vieira says, "I did not send orders to Gomes printed the same as this 'I owe.' Orders to Gomes printed the same as this 'I owe,' but we put at bottom 'charge Cuyuni store.' I put 'please pay' so 'and so and charge, 'Cuyuni store' the book was 'printed 'please pay.' Gomes further states that Leow brought him the order and he refused to pay it as it was not 'in the ordinary course,' and that Joseph Lam also brought the order but he refused to pay it as it was not an order on him. Joseph Lam states that Gomes never refused to pay it but said he would put it to the credit of the Cuyuni account, but he (Lam) refused as he knew nothing of any Cuyuni account. I think on the evidence that the plaintiff is responsible for the payment of these goods, the purchase was made by the plaintiff's manager who had full control of the plaintiff's business in the Cuyuni, and the plaintiff had the benefit of the purchase as the goods were taken into his stock at his St. John's shop.

As regards all the items of the Cuyuni account except the carriage of 14 packages to the St. John's on 24th October, and carriage of 6 packages to Quartz Stone on 19th November, there is the evidence of Vieira against the evidence of Lam. It is said that Vieira's evidence is supported by his account book. It appears to me that all the entries of this account in the book were made at the same time, and I cannot place any reliance on the book as supporting Vieira. Lam says that in April he was not employed by the defendant. It seems peculiar why there is a charge of carriage of goods from Central to Quartz Stone in August. Vieira says the goods came from Bartica to Central. Why is there no charge for carriage from Bartica to Central? and why were they sent to Quartz Stone? I can only say as regards to those items I am not satisfied they are properly chargeable to defendant. Fourteen packages were carried by the plaintiff to St. John's and for that carriage the defendant is liable. The six packages were sent to the plaintiff's shop at Quartz Stone. Vieira says he was instructed by Lam to do so by letter, that letter he says he cannot find. Lam denies he ever instructed Vieira to send these goods to Quartz Stone. The agreement was to take the goods to St. John's. I cannot think that Lam would have instructed Vieira to send the goods to Quartz Stone; at any rate the plaintiff never carried these goods to St. John's and therefore cannot claim for their carriage. It appears that when Lam went up in his hired boat in January, he found only three of his packages at Quartz Stone and these he took with him. He could have taken them from Central in the same way as he took the other eight packages. I find, therefore, that on the Cuyuni account the defendant is liable to plaintiff only for the carriage of the 14 packages to St. John's, that is to say, $21:—

As to the counter-claim, the plaintiff is a common carrier. It is alleged that three half barrels of flour were never delivered, the plaintiff has no receipt for them nor is there any evidence to show they were delivered. It is also shown that one-half barrel of cornmeal, three half barrels of flour and one drum of fish were damaged and unfit for use. This damage was caused by the long delay in forwarding the goods. For the plaintiff it is contended that taking into consideration the inaccessibility of the place to which the goods were to be carried and the lack of communication there is with that place it cannot be said there was an unreasonable delay in forwarding. The plaintiff carries on a business which he calls "The Central Despatching Agency," and he undertook to carry these goods to St. John's Landing. These packages which were damaged formed part of those sent to Quartz Stone. They arrived at Central about the middle of October, and never got further than Quartz Stone, where they remained until defendant's agent himself removed them towards the latter end of January. Vieira says he could not send them on as he had no boat. It seems to me there was a most unreasonable delay. A person undertaking to carry goods should surely have a boat available in three months' time. The journey from Central to St. John's appears to be three or four days, it was not the length or difficulty of the journey that caused the delay but the want of boats or captains for the plaintiff to carry on his business. I think the defendant is entitled to damages for the non-delivery and damage of his goods. I assess the damages at $48. I have found that $21 is due by the defendant to the plaintiff. There will be judgment therefore for the defendant for the difference, that is to say, $27 with costs.

A. V. LUCIE SMITH, J.

WILLIAMS,
versus
LEWIS.

The plaintiff is the holder by cession of action of a judgment in favour of one Toussaint against Joseph A. Williams and Josephine E. Williams. The plaintiff under that judgment levied on a horse, carriage and a set of harness, which were claimed by the defendant herein. This proceeding is by way of interpleader to try whether the horse, carriage and set of harness are the property of the plaintiff as against the judgment debtor, Josephine E. Williams.

On the evidence there can be no doubt that the horse, carriage and harness were purchased by the plaintiff for $50, and that she took out licences for them and worked them as a hackney carriage. It is said, however, that the money with which she purchased this property was her mother's, the judgment debtor J. E. Williams, and the defendant, who it appears was financing her has produced his book to show that three days before the purchase of the horse and carriage he paid J. E. Williams $50. The plaintiff says the money was given her by her sweetheart. I think it is immaterial by whom the money was given to the plaintiff. The purchase was made on the 16th December, 1901, and the levy on the 23rd September, 1902. These are not proceedings in insolvency. Josephine E. Williams is not an insolvent. Even if the money had been given by Josephine E. Williams, to the plaintiff some nine months before the levy I do not think that goods purchased by money so given could be taken in execution for Josephine E. Williams's debt. It was sought to set up a title in one David. It is said that the plaintiff sold her horse and carriage to David and transferred them to his name in the Town Books. The plaintiff states that the sale to David fell through after she had transferred in the Town Books. The transfer in the Town Books does not take the property out of the plaintiff; it would only be evidence corroborating an alleged sale to David if for instance David were trying to enforce such a sale. The defendant cannot set up a ius tertii in these proceedings; it is not really an issue that has been raised. I am of opinion that the plaintiff has made out her claim and I order the amount in Court which represents the horse and carriage and harness be paid to her.

The plaintiff has claimed damages. The amount in Court the net proceeds of the sale is $45 15. In August it appears that the horse carriage and harness were worth $100. I think the plaintiff is entitled to the difference between these sums, viz., $54 85 and $25 as damages for loss of the use of her property for three months. There will be judgment for the plaintiff for $79 85 as damages and costs.

13. (1.) When it appears to the Governor that any machine for the manufacture of gas from petroleum, or dangerous petroleum as the case may be, or for the use of petroleum, or dangerous petroleum as the case may be, as fuel, is so constructed that the use of such petroleum or dangerous petroleum is unattended with material risk or danger and that the premises in which such machine is kept are so situated and constructed that a licence under this Ordinance may be granted consistently with public safety it shall be lawful for the Governor, if he sees fit, to grant a licence under his hand to have and use upon the premises to be specified in the licence for the purpose of manufacturing gas by such machine, or for the use in such machine of petroleum, or dangerous petroleum as the case may be, as fuel, any quantity of petroleum or dangerous petroleum, not exceeding a limit to be specified in the licence.

(2.) Every such licence shall contain a full description of the machine intended to be used and of the premises where it is situated and shall specify the time during which the licence is to be in force.

(3.) There may be annexed to any such licence any conditions as to the time of use of the machine, the mode or manner in which the petroleum or dangerous petroleum is to be stored, and any other matters which the Governor may think necessary for diminishing the risk from explosion or fire, and the premises so licensed shall be subject to similar control and inspection as any other licensed buildings under this Ordinance.

(4.) Any licensee who violates any conditions of a licence issued under this section shall forfeit such licence, and shall be liable, on summary conviction, to a penalty not exceeding two hundred and fifty dollars; Provided that in any proceedings under this Ordinance against any person having a licence under this section in computing the quantity of petroleum or dangerous petroleum which the licensee is authorized by the licence to have and use upon his premises, the quantity contained in the machine in respect of which the licence is granted shall be excluded from the computation, provided that the quantity of petroleum or dangerous petroleum contained in any such machine does not exceed the limits specified in the licence.

Testing of Petroleum.

14. As soon as the Comptroller of Customs ascertains, either from the ship's manifest, or in any other manner that any vessel entering any port in this colony, is laden or partly laden with petroleum or dangerous petroleum for importation, he shall cause not less than three samples to be taken of each brand or quality of such petroleum or dangerous petroleum, and shall transmit such samples to the Government Analyst or other person authorized by the Governor under this Ordinance to test such samples, in order that the same may be tested.

Section 19.

DIRECTIONS FOR TESTING PETROLEUM.

Specification of the Test Apparatus.

The following is a description of the details of the apparatus:—

The oil cup consists of a cylindrical vessel 2 inches diameter, 2¹/₂ inches height (internal), with outward projecting rim ¹/₁₆ inch wide, ³/₈ inch from the top, and 1¹/₈ inches from the bottom of the cup. It is made of gun metal or brass (17 B.W.G.) tinned inside. A bracket, consisting of a short stout piece of wire bent upwards and terminating in a point, is fixed to the inside of the cup to serve as a gauge. The distance of the point from the bottom of the cup is 1¹/₂ inches. The cup is provided with a close-fitting overlapping cover made of brass (22 B.W.G.), which carries the thermometer and test lamp. The latter is suspended from two supports from the side by means of trunnions upon which it may be made to oscillate; it is provided with a spout, the mouth of which is ¹/₁₆ inch in diameter. The socket which is to hold the thermometer is fixed at such an angle, and its length is so adjusted, that the bulb of the thermometer, when inserted to its full depth is 1¹/₂ inches below the centre of the lid.

The cover is provided with three square holes, one in the centre, ¹/₁₆ inches by ¹/₁₆ inch, and two smaller ones, ¹/₁₆ inch by ³/₁₆ inch, close to the sides and opposite each other. These three holes may be closed and uncovered by means of a slide moving in grooves, and having perforations corresponding to those on the lid.

In moving the slide so as to uncover the holes, the oscillating lamp is caught by a pin fixed in the slide, and tilted in such a way as to bring the end of the spout just below the surface of the lid. Upon the slide being pushed back, so as to cover the holes, the lamp returns to its original position.

Upon the cover in front of and in line with the mouth of the lamp, is fixed a white bead, the dimensions of which represent the size of the test flame to be used.

The bath or heated vessel consists of two flat-bottomed copper cylinders (24 B.W.G.), an inner one of 3 inches diameter and $2\frac{1}{2}$ inches height, and an outer one of $5\frac{1}{2}$ inches diameter and $5\frac{1}{4}$ inches height; they are soldered to a circular copper plate (20 B.W.G.) perforated in the centre, which forms the top of the bath, in such a manner as to enclose the space between the two cylinders, but leaving access to the inner cylinder. The top of the bath projects both outwards and inwards about $\frac{3}{8}$ inch; that is, its diameter is about $\frac{3}{8}$ inch greater than that of the body of the bath, while the diameter of the circular opening in the centre is about the same amount less than that of the inner copper cylinder. To the inner projection of the top is fastened, by six small screws, a flat ring of ebonite, the screws being sunk below the surface of the ebonite, to avoid metallic contact between the bath and the oil cup. The exact distance between the sides and bottom of the bath and of the oil lamp is $\frac{1}{2}$ inch. A split socket similar to that on the cover of the oil cup, but set at a right angle, allows a thermometer to be inserted into the space between the two cylinders. The bath is further provided with a funnel, an overflow pipe and two loop handles.

The bath rests upon a cast iron tripod stand, to the ring of which is attached a copper cylinder or jacket (24 B.W.G.) flanged at the top and of such dimensions that the bath, while firmly resting on the iron ring, just touches with its projecting top the inward-turned flange. The diameter of this outer jacket is $6\frac{1}{2}$ inches. One of the three legs of the stand serves as support for the spirit lamp attached to it by means of a small swing bracket. The distance of the wick holder from the bottom of the bath is 1 inch.

Three thermometers are provided with the apparatus, one for ascertaining the temperature of the bath, and the other two for determining the flashing point. The thermometer for ascertaining the temperature of the water has a long bulb and a space at the top. Its range is from about 90° to 190° F. The scale (in degrees of Fahrenheit) is marked on the ivory back fastened to the tube in the usual way. It is fitted with a metal collar, fitting the socket, and the part of the tube below the scale should have a length of about $3\frac{1}{2}$ inches, measured from the lower end of the scale to the end of the bulb. The thermometer for ascertaining the temperature of the oil is fitted with a collar and ivory scale in a similar manner to the one described. It has a round bulb, a space at the top, and ranges from about 55° to 150° F.; it measures from the end of the ivory back to the bulb, $2\frac{1}{4}$ inches. A thermometer similar in construction but graduated from 85° F. to 212° F., is provided for use with oils which give off inflammable vapours at temperatures above 85° F.

The pendulum provided with the apparatus is two feet in length from the point of suspension to the centre of gravity of the weight.

DIRECTIONS FOR PREPARING THE SAMPLE FOR TESTING AND FOR PREPARING AND USING THE TEST APPARATUS.

1. Preparing the Sample for testing.—About ten fluid ounces of the oil, sufficient for three tests, are transferred from the sample bottle into which the sample has been drawn to a pint flask or bottle, which is to be immersed in water artificially cooled until a thermometer introduced into the oil shows a temperature not exceeding 60° F.

2. Preparing the water-bath.—The water bath is filled by pouring water into the funnel until it begins to flow out at the over-flow pipe. The temperature of the water at the commencement of each test, as indicated by the long bulb thermometer is to be 140° F., and this is attained in the first instance by mixing hot and cold water, either in the bath or in a vessel from which the bath is filled until the thermometer which is provided for testing the temperature of the water gives the proper indication; or the water is heated by means of a spirit lamp (which is attached to the stand of the apparatus) or by a gas burner, until the required temperature is indicated.

3. Preparing the test lamp.—The test lamp is fitted with a piece of cylindrical wick, of such thickness that it fills the wick-holder, but may readily be moved to and fro for the purpose of adjusting the size of the flame. In the body of the lamp, upon the wick, which is coiled within it, is placed a small tuft of cotton wool, moistened with petroleum, any oil not absorbed by the wool being removed. When the lamp has been lighted, the wick is adjusted by means of a pair of forceps or a pin, until the flame is the size of the bead fixed on the cover of the oil-cup; should a particular test occupy so long a time that the flame begins to get smaller, through the supply of oil in the lamp becoming exhausted, three or four drops of petroleum are allowed to fall upon the tuft of wool in the lamp from the dropping bottle or pipette provided for the purpose. This can be safely done without interrupting the test. Where gas is available, a small gas jet may be used in the place of the oil lamp.

4. Filling the oil cup.—Before the oil-cup is filled, the lid is to be made ready for being placed upon the cup, i.e., the round bulb thermometer is to be inserted into the socket (so that the projecting rim of the collar with which it is fitted touches the edge of the socket) and the test lamp is to be placed in position. The oil-cup having been previously cooled by placing it bottom downwards in water at a temperature not exceeding 60° F., is now to be rapidly wiped dry, placed on a level surface in a good light, and the oil to be tested is poured in without splashing until its surface is level with the point of the gauge which is fitted in the cup. The lid is then put on the cup at once, and pressed down, so that the edge rests on the rim of the cup.

5. Application of the test.—The water-bath, with its thermometer in position, is placed in some locality where it is not exposed to currents of air, and where the light is sufficiently subdued to admit of the size of the entire test flame being compared with that of the bead on the cover. The cup is carefully lifted without being shaken, and the test lamp lighted. The thermometer in the oil cup is now watched, and when the temperature has reached 66° F. the operation of the testing is to be commenced, the test flame being applied once for every rise of one degree.

If the oil-cup is provided with the automatic (Pensky's) arrangement for opening and shutting the slide, the clockwork is wound up by turning the knob from left to right, and set in motion by pressing the trigger.

If the slide is intended to be moved by hand, it should be drawn open slowly and shut quickly. The exact time to be observed in this operation is regulated by the swing of the pendulum supplied with this form of instrument. The opening of the slide should take the time of three oscillations, the shutting of the slide the time of the fourth oscillation of the pendulum. (By one oscillation is meant the passage of the ball of the pendulum from the greatest distance from the vertical on the one side to the greatest distance on the other.)

If a flash comes at the first application of the test flame (at 66° F.) or at any point below 83° F., the operation is to be repeated with a fresh portion of the oil which is cooled down to 55° F. before being placed in the cup. The first application of the test flame is made when the oil has reached 60° F.

In repeating a test, a fresh sample of the oil must always be used, the tested sample being thrown away.

If no flash takes place at 66° F., the operation is repeated at every degree rise of temperature until the flash occurs or until a temperature of 85° F. has been reached.

If the flash takes place at any temperature below 85° F. the temperature at which it occurs is to be recorded. The fresh portions of the sample are then to be successively tested in a similar manner and the result recorded. If no greater difference than 2° F. exists between any two of the three recorded results, the average of the three results is the flashing point of the sample. In the event of there being a greater difference than 2° F. between any two of the results, the series of tests is to be rejected, and a fresh series of three similarly obtained, and so on until a sufficiently concordant series is furnished, when the average is to be taken in the manner already described.

If a temperature of 85° F. has been reached without a flash occurring, the testing officer shall certify that the samples do not consist of volatile petroleum: Provided that when all or any of the petroleum on board a ship or in possession of a dealer is declared by the master of the ship or the consignee of the cargo or by the dealer, as the case may be, to be of one uniform quality, the petroleum shall not be certified as volatile if the samples selected from the petroleum have their flashing points, on an average, at or about 83° F. and if no one of these samples has its flashing point below 80° F.

If the petroleum is oil ordinarily used for lubricating purposes and is declared to have its flashing point at or above 200° F. the test shall be continued as follows:— The oil cup is to be removed from the water-bath, and the temperature of the water in the water-bath is to be reduced to 85° F. by pouring cold water into the funnel (the hot water escaping by the overflow pipe). The air chamber is then to be filled to a depth of 1½ inches with water at a temperature of about 85° F., the oil-cup is to be replaced on the water bath, and the spirit lamp attached to the water-bath is to be lighted and placed underneath.

The test flame is then to be again applied from 86° F. at every degree rise of temperature until a flash takes place or until a temperature of 200° F. has been reached.

If a flash occurs at any temperature between 86° and 200° F., the temperature at which it occurs must be certified as the flashing point of the sample.

22nd December, 1902.

THE following Bye-Laws of the Demerara Railway Company, which will be brought up at the next meeting of the Governor and Court of Policy for approval, are hereby published for general information.

By Command,

J. HAMPDEN KING,
Clerk of the Court.

THE DEMERARA RAILWAY COMPANY.

BYE-LAWS.

1.—No passenger will be allowed to enter any carriage used on the railway, or to travel therein upon the railway, unless furnished by the Company with a ticket specifying the class of carriage and the stations for conveyance between which such ticket is issued. Every passenger shall show and deliver up his ticket (whether a contract or season ticket or otherwise) to any duly authorised servant of the Company whenever required to do so for any purpose. Any passenger travelling without a ticket, or failing or refusing to show or deliver up his ticket as aforesaid, shall be subject to a penalty not exceeding Ten Dollars.

2.—Any passenger using or attempting to use a ticket on any day for which such ticket is not available, or using a ticket which has been already used on a previous journey, is hereby subjected to a penalty not exceeding Ten Dollars.

3.—Any passenger using or attempting to use a ticket for any other station than that for which it is available, will be required to pay the difference between the sum actually paid and the fare between the stations from and to which the passenger has travelled, or, at the option of the Company, the fare from the station to which he was booked to the end of his journey.

4.—Any passenger wilfully altering or defacing his ticket so as to render the date, number, or any material portion thereof illegible, is hereby subjected to a penalty not exceeding Ten Dollars.

5.—A return ticket is granted solely for the purpose of enabling the person for whom the same is issued to travel therewith to and from the stations marked thereon, and is not transferable. Any person who sells or attempts to sell, or parts, or attempts to part, with the possession of the return half of any return ticket, in order to enable any other person to travel therewith, is hereby subjected to a penalty not exceeding Ten Dollars, and any person purchasing such half of a return ticket, or travelling, or attempting to travel therewith, shall be liable to pay the fare which he would have been liable to pay for a single journey, and shall, in addition thereto, be subjected to a penalty not exceeding Ten Dollars.

6.—At the intermediate stations the fares will only be accepted, and the tickets issued, conditionally, that is to say, in case there shall be room in the train for which the tickets are issued. SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

LIMITED JURISDICTION.

THIS 20TH DAY OF DECEMBER, 1902.

THE ADMINISTRATOR GENERAL

as representing the estate of HENRY PHILIPS, an Absentee.

versus

A. M. DaSILVA.

This is a claim to restrain the sale at execution of a building, a vat, a closet and bath, situate on lot 9, Howes Street, Charlestown, Georgetown, on the ground that the property levied upon is not the property of the judgment-debtor, Bernard F. Nurse, but belongs to Henry Phillips who is absent from the colony.

In paragraph 1 of his statement of defence, defendant says that he "will contend at the hearing that the plaintiff has mistaken his remedy, and that it was not competent for him to oppose the sale at execution of moveable property."

At the hearing I decided to take the case on the merits, and to give my decision on the legal point raised by the defendant later on.

I am of opinion that it was not competent for the plaintiff to oppose this sale at execution in the way he has done, the property levied on being moveable property within the meaning of the term chattels in Rule 1 of Order XLII of the Rules of Court of 1900. His proper remedy for relief was by way of interpleader.

In the case of Mrs. E. G. Farnum against the Executors of A. G. Henriques, deceased, and Julia H. Farnum, co-defendant, decided 24th October, 1897, the learned Judge, who heard the case, said:—"In England houses are fixtures, part of the soil realty; whereas here the majority of our houses are moveables, mere chattels, and have been so considered frequently in the decisions of this Court. There is nothing to show that Mrs. Farnum's house was not as others, a mere chattel that can be raised by jackscrews, and removed bodily across the road; so how can anything be a fixture in a house which is not itself a fixture, but is a mere moveable." In this case, counsel for the plaintiff has argued that a lease of land being in its nature real property or savouring of the realty, that a levy on a lease, together with a house on the leased land, should be regarded as a levy on immovable property, to prevent the sale of which, at execution, an opposition suit would be. I am afraid I cannot agree with this contention; a lease of land is a chattel, that is moveable property, and a levy on a house, which is a chattel, together with the lease of the land on which it is erected, cannot possibly change the nature of the things levied upon, and convert what is moveable into immovable property. Bailiffs in the Magistrate Court who have no authority to levy on immovable property, are empowered to levy on houses together with the lease of the land on which they stand. The law directing bailiffs, when levying on houses on leased lands, to levy on the lease also, creates no new principle of law by making that which was immovable, moveable, for the purpose of executing a judgment of a magistrate. Inconvenience was felt by reason of houses on leased lands being taken in execution without the lease itself being levied on, and it was to do away with such inconvenience, that Ordinance 12 of 1897 was enacted.

In an order on a petition to levy on a lease of land in execution of a sentence of a Petty Debt Court, Mr. Justice Semper, on 8th October, 1881, in the absence of Chief Justice, Sir David Chalmers, writes:—"The warrant of execution prayed for is not necessary, as the right, title, and interest of the within named Manoel D'Oliveira in and to the lease of the piece of land herein mentioned, with the building thereon, must be regarded as moveable property". This order has, of course, not the same force and effect as a judgment of the Court, but it serves to show that leases of land, together with houses on that land, have for years past been regarded as moveable property.

I am of opinion that plaintiff has mistaken his remedy, and that he should have proceeded by way of interpleader. This opposition must, therefore, be dismissed, but as, on the hearing, I was not satisfied that the property levied on belonged to the judgment debtor, Nurse, I am prepared under the circumstances, and if plaintiff be so advised to hear any application which may be made by him for such relief, if any, as the Rules of Court can or may afford him. Each party must bear his own costs.

Provided that any officer may if he so please, effect his insurance at any time before the end of the first year as aforesaid, and in such case he shall pay to the Receiver General, such sum, as with the amount of any deductions already made as aforesaid, from his salary, is required to pay the first premium on his insurance, and the Receiver General shall apply such sum, together with the amount of such deductions in payment of such first premium; and the amount so deducted as aforesaid from such officer's salary in that and succeeding years, shall in like manner be applied in payment of the second and succeeding premiums payable in respect of such insurance.

10.—(1.) Any public officer whose life is insured under this Ordinance, and who is promoted from the public service of this Colony to any other employment under the Crown, or who retires from the public service of this Colony without a pension or who ceases from any other cause whatsoever (except as in Section 10 provided) to be a public officer in this Colony shall have the option :

Public Officer promoted to other Colony, &c., to have option of having policy assigned to him, or having a fully policy.

(a.) of having his policy transferred to him or any other person he shall nominate, by the Receiver General, freed from all liability or restrictions imposed by this Ordinance, or

Such option must be declared in writing within six weeks of such officer's retirement from the service of the Colony and in default of such option being declared as aforesaid, such public officer shall be taken to have elected to have his policy converted into a fully paid up policy under sub-section (1) (b) hereof, and the Receiver General shall take the necessary steps accordingly.

Provided that where such officer's widow or children reside in the United Kingdom, the discretion hereby given to the Governor-in-Council may be exercised by the Secretary of State.

(2.) In case any public officer dies before he has effected an insurance under this Ordinance, or dies before the date when the premium on his insurance is due the sums deducted from his salary, under section 7 hereof and not applied in the payment of premiums, shall be dealt with as if the same were the sum assured by an insurance effected under this Ordinance.

13. Any money remaining in the hands of the Receiver General from the sums deducted in any year from the salary of any officer, under this Ordinance, after paying thereout the premium on the insurance of such officer, and the cost, if any, of remitting the same, shall be returned to such officer at the end of the year.

Ordinance.

(a) The Governor-in-Council is satisfied that such officer's life is insured for a sum not less than that for which such officer would be bound to insure under this Ordinance by some Company, Society or Association of which the Governor-in-Council approves, and that the insurance moneys have been or are duly secured for the benefit of his wife and children and protected from the debts (if any) of such officer, and

(b) Such officer duly pays and exhibits to the Receiver General the receipt for each premium as and when the same becomes payable and is paid.

(2.) If any officer not insured under this Ordinance fails to exhibit any such receipt as aforesaid, he shall forthwith be obliged to insure his life under this Ordinance.

15. If any officer who is obliged to effect an insurance or an additional insurance on his life under this Ordinance fails for any cause other than being unable to pass the necessary medical examination, to effect such insurance within six months after the obligation arises, his office shall, at the expiration of that period, become vacant and he shall for all purposes be deemed to have resigned it.

Court of Policy Notice.

HALL OF THE COURT OF POLICY,

Georgetown, Demerara,

29th December, 1902.

THE following Bill, which was read a first time at a meeting of the Governor and Court of Policy on the 26th November, 1902, is hereby published for general information.

By Command,

J. HAMPDEN KING,

Clerk of the Court.

THE INDICTABLE OFFENCES (PROCEDURE) ORDINANCE, 1893, AMENDMENT BILL, 1902.

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM.

The object of this Bill is to amend the procedure in Criminal Cases in two respects :

Firstly, to provide for the original depositions taken by the Magistrate being sent to the Registrar, instead of, as now, to the Attorney-General. The Court being the proper custodian of original documents, it is obviously desirable that original depositions, which after certain original letters and other documents, should be deposited in Court, the Attorney-General being furnished with copies to enable him to indict and prosecute at the sessions. The second and main object of the Bill is to enable the Attorney-General to enter a nolle prosequi in any criminal case before the trial, where in his opinion the evidence does not justify him in indicting the accused person at the sessions, and thus to enable such accused person to be at once discharged, instead of, as now, being kept in custody till the end of the next sessions. At present an accused person, against whom the Attorney-General is of opinion there is no case, cannot be discharged till the end of the next sessions, and it is thus possible for a person to be left in prison two or three months after it has been decided that no charge is to be preferred against him.

A BILL ENTITLED "AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE "INDICTABLE OFFENCES (PROCEDURE) ORDINANCE, "1893."

BE it enacted by the Governor of British Guiana with the advice and consent of the Court of Policy thereof, as follows :—

1. This Ordinance may be cited as "The Indictable Offences (Procedure) Ordinance 1893, Amendment Ordinance, 1905." Short title.

2. Section 70 of the Indictable Offences (Procedure) Ordinance, 1893, is amended as follows :— Amendment of Sec. 70 of Ord. 19 of 1893.

(a.) Sub-section (1) shall be read and construed as if the word "Registrar" were inserted therein in the third line thereof instead of the words "Attorney General."

(b.) Sub-section (2) shall be read and construed as if the words "Attorney General" were inserted therein in the second line thereof, instead of the word "Registrar."

3. Section 72 of the above Ordinance is amended, as follows :—

Amendment
of Sec. 72 of
Ord. 19 of 1893.

Sub-section (1) shall be read and construed as if the words "the case" were inserted therein in the fourth line thereof instead of the words "such documents."

4. Section 73 of the above Ordinance shall be read and construed as if the words "the case" were inserted therein in the fifth line thereof, instead of the words "such documents."

Amendment
of Sec. 73 of
Ord. 19 of 1893.

5. Sub-section (3) of section 74 of the above Ordinance is repealed and the following substituted therefor :—

Amendment
of Sec. 74 of
Ord. 19 of 1893.

"(3.) The Registrar, at the request in writing of the Attorney General, shall send back to the Magistrate the original documents transmitted to him by such Magistrate."

6. Section 111 of the above Ordinance is repealed and the following substituted therefor :—

Substitution of new Sec.
for Sec. 111 of Ord. 19 of 1893.

"111.—(1.) At any time after the receipt of the documents before referred to and either before or at the trial and at any time before verdict, the Attorney General may enter a nolle prosequi either by stating in Court, or by informing the Court in writing that the Crown intends that the proceedings should not continue, and, thereupon, the accused person shall be at once discharged, in respect of the charge for which the nolle prosequi is entered, and if he has been committed to prison, shall be released, or if on bail, his recognizance shall be discharged, but such discharge of an accused person shall not operate as a bar to any subsequent proceedings against him on the same facts."

Right of Attorney-General to enter nolle prosequi.

"(2.) In case the accused shall not be before the Court when such nolle prosequi is entered the Registrar shall cause notice in writing of the entry of such nolle prosequi to be given to the Keeper of the Prison in which such accused may be detained, and also to the Magistrate of the District in which such accused was committed for trial. Such Magistrate shall forthwith cause a similar notice in writing to be given to any witnesses bound over to give evidence at the trial and to the accused and his sureties in case he shall have been admitted to bail."

7. Sections 171 and 172 of the above Ordinance are hereby repealed.

Repeal of Secs. 171 and 172 of
Ord. 17 of 1893.

versus

YEARWOOD.

When this matter was called an objection was taken to the summons on the ground that the name and address for service of the person suing out or serving the summons was not endorsed thereon under Rule 69 of the Insolvency Rules which, it was contended, applies to judgment-summons. A judgment-summons is an application under the Debtor's Ordinance, the rules dealing with such applications are distinct from the Insolvency Rules although they form Part VI of such rules. Rule 344 (1) provides that a judgment-summons shall be served in the like manner as is prescribed for service of a creditor's petition. To my mind this means that the rules headed "Service of Creditors' Petition" and numbered 117 to 121 inclusive should apply. The rule by its terms applies only to the service, that is, the delivering of the document to the person to whom it is addressed, it does not, I consider, apply to something to be done before it is so delivered, that is to say, to the endorsing an address for service before delivery. A decision of Kirke, J., in De Paiva v. Lewis, 30th October, 1894, has been brought to my notice in which the learned judge says: "In the summons before me there is no endorsement at all so the summons is clearly bad and should be dismissed." No reasons are given for this decision except that rule 69 provides there shall be an endorsement, perhaps the question of the applicability of rule 69 was not raised. I cannot agree with the decision in that case as I do not consider that the want of endorsement would make the summons bad. I think it is desirable that an address for service should be endorsed, and the plaintiff should forthwith endorse such address on the summons, but the absence of it does not render the summons void. The summons to my mind is good and should not be set aside.

A. V. LUCIE SMITH, J.

THIS 24TH DAY OF DECEMBER, 1902.

W. H. GORING

versus

B. F. NURSE.

In this action, the plaintiff seeks to recover from the defendant the sum of $180 00, due on a Promissory note, dated 4th March, 1902, made by defendant and one W. H. Grimshaw, in favour of the plaintiff, which note, on being presented at the Colonial Bank, was dishonoured for non-payment.

In his statement of defence, defendant admits making the note but avers:—

1. That at the time the note was made he and plaintiff were partners in gold expeditions;

2. That the note was signed at the request of plaintiff for the accommodation of the partnership business;

3. That plaintiff gave defendant $40 00 of the proceeds of the note, plaintiff being then indebted to the defendant largely for the partnership business;

4. That the said sum was debited to defendant in the usual way in the partnership;

5. That the plaintiff has received large sums of gold from the partnership placers and has been appropriating the same to his own use;

6. That the plaintiff and defendant have not rendered accounts to each other for their intromissions in partnership business;

7. That on such rendering of accounts it will be found that the plaintiff is largely indebted to the defendant;

8. That the note sued on was retired when it became due from moneys belonging to the said partnership;

9. Plaintiff has mistaken his remedy.

The defendant having admitted making the note the only question to be considered is:—Was the defendant partner at the time this note was made, and, if so, was it made as alleged by the defendant for the benefit of the partnership business?

The fact that plaintiff has not been called as a witness, renders it somewhat difficult to say what are the real circumstances of the case, but defendant having made the note, the onus of proving that he was not liable on it to the plaintiff in the ordinary way lay on him. Has he succeeded in so doing?

His story is that he and Goring, being partners, they wanted to obtain provisions for working their claims from A. M. da Silva, and for this purpose it was necessary to make a payment on account of goods already obtained. The note sued on was accordingly made, signed by W. H. Grimshaw and defendant, from the proceeds of which $20 was paid to Grimshaw, $40 to defendant, and $80 to A. M. da Silva, the balance—$40—presumably, being retained by the plaintiff. Defendant says the $40 he received was debited to him in the usual way in the partnership, but he does not explain to what account the $20 to Grimshaw was debited.

On the other hand it is not shown why plaintiff should go to Grimshaw to do a note for the benefit of the partnership between plaintiff and defendant, nor why he should receive $20 of the proceeds of that note. Defendant declares in his pleadings that the $40 paid to him was debited to him in the usual way in the partnership. In his evidence he says nothing of this; in fact it would be difficult for him to do so, for he kept no accounts.

Beyond defendant's statement there is nothing to show plaintiff was indebted to A. M. da Silva, but there is evidence that he and defendant on the 5th March made a joint note in favour of A. M. da Silva for $222 76. This defendant says was for fresh goods ordered by plaintiff. It seems peculiar that Grimshaw's services in a partnership transaction should be required on 4th March when on the 5th A. M. da Silva accepted a note for $222 76 signed by plaintiff and defendant alone. Then again defendant says that plaintiff endorsed a blank form of note and gave it to him to renew the note sued on; that Grimshaw was to assist in the renewal, and that he (plaintiff) knew he had to take up the note. If the note was a partnership transaction it does not appear why Grimshaw should be called upon to renew it, or why Goring should take up the note any more than Nurse, the defendant. And, finally, there is Wills' evidence that defendant told him the note was given for the accommodation of Grimshaw. I see no particular reason for believing defendant in preference to Wills. Defendant alleges that the note was taken up by plaintiff from partnership funds, but there is no proof of this; on the contrary, plaintiff's private account appears to have been debited with the amount. A letter dated 12th June, 1902, written by plaintiff, has been put in evidence in support of the allegation that the note was a partnership transaction. To my mind, this is not the only construction which can be put on the letter. Grimshaw appears to have been in financial trouble at the time, and it is conceivable that plaintiff being aware of that fact was making arrangements in case of Grimshaw's failing to do so, to meet the note himself. He may have also been aware that defendant himself was not in a position to retire the note. If it had been a partnership transaction only, it was just as much the duty of defendant to take up the note as it was of the plaintiff.

Plaintiff has not been called upon to give evidence in the case, and his absence from the witness box has rendered it somewhat more difficult to arrive at a conclusion than if he had been examined. He must have been aware of all the circumstances of the case and could have enlightened the Court on points which, without his evidence, remain somewhat obscure. It was, however, as I have said above for the defendant to satisfy me of the truth of his allegation, that the note was made by him for the accommodation of the partnership between himself and plaintiff. The parties may have been partners when the note was made out but I cannot say I am satisfied by the evidence that plaintiff and defendant, being partners, this note was made for the accommodation of the partnership. That being so, there must be judgment for the plaintiff with costs.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

THIS 24TH DAY OF DECEMBER, 1902.

J. I. FERREIRA, Appellant.

versus

MRS. EDWARDS, Respondent.

This is an appeal against the decision of the acting Police Magistrate of Georgetown, Mr. S. G. T. Bourke, awarding the appellant, plaintiff in the Court below, the sum of $11 20 and costs in an action brought by him against the respondent, defendant in the Court below, for $21 20 for goods sold and delivered.

In his reasons for judgment the Magistrate says:—
“In this case the defendant admits owing $11 20. The sole question to be decided is whether or no a payment of $10 was made by the defendant to the admitted agent of the plaintiff on October 6th, 1902. If she did then only $11 20 is due as admitted. If she did not, then she is liable for the whole amount. The evidence of the witness Joseph Creek was most unsatisfactory. He declined to express any opinion upon a receipt A for $10 dated October 6th, 1902. All he would be induced to say was that he could not remember giving it. He even declined to say whether it was his handwriting or not. On comparing it, however, with a receipt admitted to be written by him, the resemblance of the writings is most striking. The evidence of J. Ferreira, with reference to the sum owed by the defendant on September 13th, is difficult to reconcile with the bill of particulars, also the evidence of Creek, that he showed the defendant her account in the pass-book and that then the balance against her was entered in the book when it turns out that the only entry to that effect in the pass-book was in faint pencil marks is, to say the least of it, curious. On the whole I am satisfied that the receipt for $10 is a genuine one and give judgment accordingly.”

From this it may be gathered that the Magistrate based his decision on the fact that a certain receipt for $10 dated 6th October, 1902, was genuine. No witnesses for the defence appear to have been examined before the Magistrate and besides the evidence of Creek, who said he did not remember giving the receipt for $10 and would not swear whether he did or did not sign it and could not remember whether he received the $10 there was nothing to show under what circumstances the receipt was given or who produced it. Defendant appears to have been present in Court and evidence by her or on her behalf would have at once settled the matter one way or the other.

Under these circumstances I decided to take evidence in this Court as to the receipt for $10 and on 12th December, defendant and her shopwoman, Julia Jordan, appeared and testified to the fact that the $10 was paid on 6th October towards appellant's account and that the receipt was given by Creek. That being so I am of opinion that the amount awarded by the Magistrate to the appellant was the sum really and truly due to him by the respondent. Appellant has given several reasons of appeal based on what he calls errors in point of law but all of which might very well have been embodied in the last reason, viz:—
“The decision is altogether unwarranted by the evidence in like manner as if the case had been tried by a jury there would not have been sufficient evidence to sustain the verdict.”

The evidence taken by the Magistrate and that given before me shows that respondent paid appellant's agent $10 on the 6th October, 1902, which amount was not credited to her. The appeal therefore is dismissed. As to costs, I have felt some hesitation in allowing them to the respondent seeing that she gave no evidence in the Court below but as she did undoubtedly pay the $10 and that fact must have been known to the appellant or at any rate to his agent Creek, the dismissal of the appeal will be with costs as usual.

R. A. SWAN, Actg. J.

CAETANO, Appellant,

versus

DUNCAN, Respondent.

This is an appeal from a decision of Mr. P. H. R. Hill, Assistant Police Magistrate of Georgetown, convicting the appellant on a charge that he, being the holder of a retail spirit shop licence for premises situate at lot 87, Albert Town, did on Sunday, the 3rd August, 1902, unlawfully keep open the said retail spirit shop, situate as aforesaid for the purpose of selling therein spirituous liquors, contrary to section 3, Ordinance 20 of 1902.

The reasons for appeal (stated shortly) are (1) that illegal evidence was admitted without which there was not sufficient legal evidence to sustain the decision, the illegal evidence being the oral statement of G. M. Steele as to the contents of an alleged extract from the list of retail spirit shop licences kept in the Receiver General's Office, which extract is not shown by the copy of the proceedings to have been tendered in evidence, and which even if tendered was not legal evidence, notice to produce his licence not having been given to the appellant; and (2) that the decision is wholly unwarranted by the evidence, there being no evidence to prove (a) that the shop was kept open; or (b) that it was kept open for the purpose of selling spirituous liquors therein. Notice was given of one other reason for appeal, but this was abandoned by the appellant's counsel.

In support of the first reason for appeal, it was contended for the appellant that it was necessary to prove that he was the holder of a retail spirit shop licence for the premises, and that the decisions in D'Oliveira v Darrell (4th January, 1872) and De Freitas v Elliot (14th May, 1881) which were apparently accepted by Sir W. Smith, C.J., as correct in law in Martin v Holder (21st July, 1898), laid down the rule that the list of retail spirit shop licences kept by the Receiver General was not admissible of itself, and without any legal foundation being previously laid for its production as evidence, as e.g. by a notice to produce the original licence being served on the alleged licence holder, and that a fortiori the same rule applied to a mere extract from that list, and therefore there was no legal proof before the Court of the appellant being the holder of a retail spirit shop licence. Reference was also made to Serrao v Booth (12th September, 1902), in which Smith, J. recognised the effect of the decisions cited, and although thinking the law might well have been other than it is there laid down refrained from expressing any opinion differing from the authorities cited.

Counsel for the respondent admitted that the argument of appellant's counsel was valid, unless as he contended was the case, section 9 of Ordinance 6 of 1900 provided that a certified extract from the list already mentioned was admissible in evidence, and was prima facie proof of the matter or transaction therein mentioned.

It is in my opinion clear that, unless section 9 of Ordinance 6 of 1900 has the effect suggested, the argument of the appellant's counsel is valid, as there is not, so far as I am aware, any rule or principle of law which, apart from an express statutory provision on the subject would render a certified extract from any book, or list of licences or the like, which a public officer is required by law to keep admissible in evidence, in proof of the contents of such book or list, or as prima facie evidence of the matter or transaction therein mentioned. The fact also that provision to this effect is in certain cases expressly made by statute is a tacit recognition by the Legislature that there is no such general rule or principle of law. The sole question therefore to be determined in connection with this reason for appeal is whether the section mentioned has the effect contended for by the respondent's counsel. The section renders admissible in evidence as proof of their contents and prima facie proof of the matter or transaction therein mentioned, certified copies or extracts "from any writing, document or record in the custody of any public officer, which is required by any law or regulation to be written or made and delivered to such officer or to be recorded." The effect of this is, in my opinion, to render certified copies or extracts from "any writing, document, or record" admissible, provided such writing, document or record is (1) in the custody of a public officer, and (2) is required by any law or regulation either (a) to be written or made and delivered to such officer, or (b) to be recorded. The term "record" may, according to Webster's and other dictionaries mean "an authentic or official account of any facts or proceedings entered in a book for preservation," and the phrase "to be recorded" may, according to the same authorities mean "to be registered" or "to be enrolled" or "to be entered in a book or on parchment for the purpose of preserving authentic or correct evidence of a thing." If these respectively be the several meanings of the word and phrase in the enactment quoted, and to me they appear to be the only meanings which enable a construction to be placed on it which will give effect to all the words used, the section quoted covers both writings, &c., prepared by private individuals and delivered to a public officer in compliance with some law or regulation and also accounts of any facts or proceedings entered in a book or register by a public officer in compliance with some law or regulation which requires them to be registered. I think, therefore, the extract from the list of licence-holders was, if duly tendered, admissible in evidence. It is also in my opinion a fair inference from its being duly marked as if tendered and admitted and from there being no objection taken to the evidence of G. M. Steele by the solicitor who appeared for the appellant, and from that evidence, that the extract was duly tendered, although it is to be regretted that no express statement of that fact appears on the face of the proceedings.

The question raised by the second reason for appeal is whether the evidence is sufficient to support the charge as laid and on which the appellant has been convicted, namely, the keeping open during prohibited hours a licensed retail spirit shop for the purpose of selling therein spirituous liquors contrary to section 3 of Ordinance 20 of 1902. It was necessary, in support of this charge of keeping open a shop, to give evidence of facts showing there was some access to the premises from outside, but if (as in this case) the evidence shows that no door was actually kept open, it is sufficient (as has been laid down in cases under the corresponding English enactment) to show that a door will, if it is tapped at or other notice is given by a customer, be opened, or in the words of Mellor, J., in Brigden v. Heighes, 1, Q.B.D. 330, if the house is apparently closed the magistrate in order to convict must be able to find on the evidence that the premises "were not really though apparently closed, that the closing was a sham and that the premises were really kept open for people who wish to purchase intoxicating liquor." In the present case the evidence shows that several persons were seen standing on the bridge leading to the yard in which the rum shop is, and then leaving and after a short interval three women came on the bridge, two of whom asked for rum which was obtained for them from the shop, the door being opened for the purpose. On this evidence it cannot, in my opinion, be held that the magistrate had no ground for concluding that the shop "though apparently closed" was "really kept open for people who wished to purchase intoxicating liquor." The sole question which remains and it is one of some difficulty is whether there is sufficient evidence to support the conclusion that the shop was kept open "for the purpose of selling therein." The word "therein" which is inserted in the local Ordinance in the description of the offence of opening or keeping open during prohibited hours any licensed place for the purpose of selling or bartering spirituous liquor, &c., is not to be found in the corresponding English enactment, and some meaning and effect must be assigned to it. The purpose or intention, however, with which the shop was kept open may be inferred from the surrounding circumstances, without proof of any sale being completely carried out within the shop, and although, in the present case, only the appropriation to two customers of the rum purchased by them is proved to have taken place within the shop itself, I do not think that had the case been tried by a jury, the verdict could have been set aside on the ground that there was no evidence to support it, although the evidence on this point is not very strong.

The decision appealed from is therefore affirmed and the appeal dismissed with costs.

HENRY A. BOVELL, C.J.

GENERAL CIVIL JURISDICTION.

THIS 24TH DAY OF DECEMBER, 1902.

LEWIS,

versus

YEARWOOD.

After delivering decision on the objection taken on behalf of the judgment-debtor as to the validity of a judgment-summons not having endorsed on it the name and address of the person suing out the same, counsel for the judgment-debtor raised another objection, viz., that a judgment-summons could not be issued as the judgment-creditor had not attempted to take the judgment-debtor's property in execution. I think it is highly inconvenient that objections should be taken in this way at different times, and such a practice should not be allowed in future. I consider all objections to the validity of any process should be taken at one and the same time.

There is nothing in any law or rule that I am aware of which makes it obligatory on a judgment-creditor to proceed in execution before he can take out a judgment-summons. The case of Signally v Soondar, which came before Atkinson, J. on the 3rd August, 1884, was relied on as supporting the contention advanced on behalf of the judgment-debtor. The learned judge in that case does not appear to have given any written decision, there is an entry in the Minute Book by the Clerk of the Court that the learned judge said as follows:—"I say that I for one will not entertain these applications (judgment-summonses) until it is shown on evidence that an attempt has been made to recover the sums due under the judgment by ordinary process of law and unless it has been made to appear that the mover has no other means of ascertaining that the debtor has no other property to satisfy the debt." This by no means decides that a judgment-creditor cannot legally proceed by way of judgment-summons, unless he has previously issued a writ of execution or proves he knows of no property belonging to the judgment-debtor. The Debtors' Ordinance, 1884, is practically the same as the English Act as far as relates to judgment-summonses. It is clear from the case of Montgomery & Co., v de Bulenes, 1898, 2 Q. B. 420, that a judgment-summons can be taken out before a writ of execution has been issued. The point decided in that case was that where an order for the payment of a judgment of the High Court by instalments had been made by a County Court Judge under the Debtors' Act a writ of execution could not issue from the High Court until that order was discharged. No execution had been issued before the judgment-summons was taken out and from the judgment of Clitty, L. J. it appears that the judgment-creditors knew that the debtor had furniture which could be taken in execution. It is contended that it is not fair to examine a debtor as to his private affairs when the creditor could obtain payment of his debt by taking the property of the debtor in execution. On the other hand why should the creditor run the risk of an opposition suit by taking any property which the debtor may allege to be his. The creditor may also under Order xxxvi, r. 29, examine in debtor as to his property and means without taking out a judgment-summons.

I consider that the judgment-creditor has the legal right to take out a judgment-summons before issuing execution. I do not think it is not competent for me to deprive him of this right. I over rule the objection.

BOARD OF AGRICULTURE.

12th December, 1902.

THE following Report by R. Ward, Esquire, Agricultural Instructor, on grape culture in British Guiana, and the varieties most suitable for cultivation, is published for general information:—

OSCAR WEBER,
 Secretary.

Georgetown, Demerara,
 4th December, 1902.

Sir,—

I have the honour to submit the following report on grape culture in British Guiana, and the varieties most suitable for cultivation.

2. There are several unnamed varieties commonly grown here, one of these is a very inferior small white or green, and another a very small purple, both of which are very prolific. A much finer variety known as the green muscatel is also being successfully grown here and is becoming more extensively cultivated. This variety is not so prolific as the two unnamed ones mentioned above, but the bunches, as well as the individual grapes, are much larger and compare favourably with any imported into this colony.

3. There are one or two other white or green varieties intermediate between the above, which produce very fair sized bunches and the grapes are of good flavour. These varieties, which I have met with on one or two occasions, are well worth cultivating.

4. The above comprise all the different varieties of grapes known to me as being generally cultivated in the colony, but of recent years several of the different varieties cultivated in England have been introduced by some people here and grown with partial success. These are the Black Hamburg, Gros. Colman, and Muscat of Alexandria. The partial failure to grow these varieties, I am of opinion, is due in most cases, to the unfavourable situation and the conditions under which they are planted, as also to a want of proper knowledge as to their treatment and care throughout the various stages of their development.

5. With reference to the variety 'Trebiano' as far as I can ascertain there is none of it cultivated in this colony.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your obedient servant,

R. WARD.
